Democrats Predict Victory For Plan to Reform the Courts

Republicans Organizing To Oppose "Packing" the Supreme Court and "Dictatorship" are Joined By Some Democrats.

LIBERALS COOL

Former President Hoover Urges Congress To Delay Decision Until Public Opinion Crystallizes.

Washington, Feb. 6 (AP).—President Roosevelt's program for reorganization of the judiciary aroused a tempest of dispute today, with pledges of support for outnumbering protests in congress.

Still stunned by his surprise action, Democratic leaders predicted an eventual if hard won victory.

Republicans, organizing to oppose what they called "packing" the Supreme Court and "dictatorship", were joined by some influential Democrats. Both sides watched the immediate national reaction closely, evidently planning to go to the country on the issue.

In New York, former President Hoover said the recommendations implied "subordination of the court to the personal executive." He urged congress to delay decision until public power of the opinion crystallized.

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, said plenty of time would be allowed for consideration.

Many legislators followed the market trends, especially in Wall Street, where stocks sold off one to five points upon publication of the Roosevelt message. The losses were reduced later. Some brokers viewed the slump as partially attributed to the size of recent price advances.

Although the president submitted a bill with his message, no one had introduced it in the senate. It was offered in the house yesterday by a comparative newcomer, Representative Maverick (D-Tex), almost before many realized the full purport. Both branches were in recess today.

Not a single Democratic representative openly opposed the suggestions. Members of the Liberal bloc spoke emphatically in favor.

Chairman Ashurst (D-Ariz), of the senate judiciary committee, who only last week advocated amendment of the constitution rather than changes by "indirection," likewise as hesitant. After reflection, he promised his support.

While many senators declined to commit themselves, about two-thirds of those who did stood by the president. Among the dissenters were such Democrats as King of Utah, Burke of Nebraska, Glass and Byrd of Virginia and Gerry of Rhode Island.

Opposition centered on the president's request for power to expand the membership of the Supreme Court to 15, if those over 70 years of age did not retire.

The Bill to effect reforms was referred to the judiciary committees in both houses. Both committee have strong conservative sentiment.

The administration's problem was further complicated by coolness among some senate liberals.

Senator Borah (R-Idaho) refused to take a position at once, but said meaningfully the proposal to increase the Supreme Court would "be discussed."

Senator Norris (Ind-Neb), one of Mr. Roosevelt's strongest supporters, agreed with his statement of the problem, but doubted "the wisdom of the remedy."

Borah and Norris are the ranking minority members of the judiciary committee. They always have exercised wide influence.

A preliminary check of the senate committee showed that of the 18 members, five were friendly to the proposals and five hostile. The others either were not ready to speak or not available for comment.

Representative Wadsworth (R-NY), chairman of the house Republican policy committee, called the minority to meet Wednesday night in an attempt to assure united opposition.

Hoover Condemns

New York, Feb. 6 (AP).—Herbert Hoover today viewed President Roosevelt's proposals to alter the Supreme Court as having "the implication of subordination of the court to the personal power of the executive." The former president said the proposals represented an attempt to make changes in the constitution by "packing" the Supreme Court, and he expressed hope the Congress would "delay action until the people have had ample time to formulate their views upon it."

Call Roosevelt Dictator.

London, Feb. 6 (AP).—President Roosevelt's proposal for federal court reorganization created the deepest interest in England today. Liberals applauded; conservatives, for the most part, looked askance. "It is the only way to break the stranglehold of the supreme court," said the Liberal Star. The Conservative Standard called it "a sheer political move." The Sunday Times said: "Roosevelt called dictator."

Wall Street Sold Stocks Very Rapidly Today

New York, Feb. 5 (AP).—Wall Street sold stocks rapidly in todays market session following announcement President Roosevelt had recommended to congress an increase in the membership of the Supreme Court.

After quick study of the proposal, offerings of leading shares increased in volume and losses of a few cents to more than $5 were soon widely distributed throughout the list. The ticker tape for a while lagged about 5 minutes behind actual transactions on the floor of the stock exchange.

Earlier the market had shown signs of rallying, although dealings were on the quiet side as financial quarters awaited word from the General Motors strike negotiations.

Conspicuous losers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, U. S. Pipe & Foundry, General Motors, Chrysler, Pittsburgh United, Western Union, Westinghouse, Consolidated Edison, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Southern Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, N. Y. Central, Douglas Aircraft and American Can.

Many Proposals For Curbing the Supreme Court

Washington, Feb. 6. (AP).—Dozens of proposals for curbing the Supreme Court or getting around its anti-New Deal decisions have cropped up in congress, but none of them resembled President Roosevelt's bill.

Plans most widely discussed were:

1. A constitutional amendment giving the federal government power to fix minimum wages and maximum working hours.

2. A law requiring a 7-to-2 vote of the court to invalidate an act of congress.

3. Action to remove certain types of statutes from the supreme court's jurisdiction.

4. A Federal incorporation act, advocated by Senators O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) and Borah (R-Ida), requiring federal licenses for companies in interstate business. The licenses would contain rules for the conduct of business

5. A proposal by Senator Capper (R-Kan) for prohibiting the shipment of child-made goods into states with child labor laws.

A variety of other constitutional amendments also are before congress. Typical are the proposals of Senator Nye (R-ND) to permit federal regulation of agriculture, and of Senator Logan (D-Ky) to permit congress to legislate for "the general welfare" defining that phrase of the constitution.

The only plan for enlarging the court's membership was advanced by Senator Lunden (Fl-Minn), who urged the seating of two new justices.

Senators Pope (D-Ida) and Lonergan (D-Conn) have advocated amending the constitution to permit its future amendment by popular vote.

Reforms of the lower federal courts have been sought. Senator McKellar (D-Tenn), asked that any injunction against the enforcement of a law be immediately appealed to the supreme court without intermediate review.

Bills for creating new district and circuit courts to relieve crowded judicial calendars have been common for many years.

Miss Howe, Social Writer of Freeman

Mrs. Lucia de L. Klock, president of The Freeman Publishing Company, announces the appointment of Miss Margaret A. Howe as Social Editor of The Freeman. Miss Howe is the daughter of Mrs. E. Lewis Howe of Emerson street and the late Rev. E. Lewis Howe of Trinity Church, Saugerties. Miss Howe is a graduate of Skidmore College, year 1934, where she attained a B. S. degree in public school music.

All items of social interest, including functions, societies, clubs and personals, may be sent to the Social Editor at the downtown office of The Freeman.

Dr. Mark O'Meara Dead, Eminent Chief of Staff Of Benedictine Hospital

Tributes Paid to Dr. Mark O'Meara

Friends of Dr. O'Meara, learning of his death, paid tribute to him, as follows:

Dr. O'Meara was my personal friend and guide in the practice of medicine in this city.

He was ever willing to help the young practitioner and to get him on the Hospital staff and in line with organized scientific medicine.

Association with him as chief of staff of the Benedictine Hospital showed him always to have the Hospital's interest at heart and to make it a vital part of this city. It was his pride.

As past secretary of the Ulster County Medical Society for 10 years and as its present president I am in a position to say that Dr. O'Meara was a stabilizing factor in the guidance of the society during the transition period of medicine from the old school to the present type of practice.

His professional ethics were of the highest and his demise is a severe loss to the city of Kingston and surrounding area.

The profession will miss him greatly.

FRED H. VOSS, M. D.,
President Ulster County Medical Society.

Judge Joseph M. Fowler, president of the Ulster County Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health:

"Dr. O'Meara and I were friends and associates almost from the time he came to Kingston, but I came to know him best in our connection with Tuberculosis Hospital and public health matters in which activities he was a leader. During all this time he gave unstintingly of his time and money in the interest of the unfortunate and in his fight for better health conditions. His services to the community will be his greatest monument."

Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb, superintendent of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital, and practicing physician and surgeon of this city:

"The medical profession of New York state has suffered a great loss in the passing of Dr. Mark O'Meara. He has always been a progressive and constructive type of physician—keenly interested in the public health work of our community. In the field of tuberculosis he was one of the pioneers in Ulster county and every citizen owes him a debt of gratitude for the efforts he has made toward the eradication of this disease."

Among those who this morning expressed themselves as feeling keenly their loss at the passing of Dr. O'Meara, was Philip Elting. Mr. Elting's home for twenty years or more has adjoined that of Dr. O'Meara on Malden Lane and a close friendship has subsisted between the two men. "Dr. O'Meara was a good neighbor, a good citizen and a good friend; I was very fond of him," said Mr. Elting.

Dr. Charles D. Carter, a past president of the Kingston Rotary Club, said: "In the death of Dr. Mark O'Meara the city has lost a fine surgeon, a good citizen, a man who was interested in all civic matters and who was at one time a very active member in the Rotary Club."

Elihu Root "Very Weak."

New York, Feb. 6 (AP).—The condition of Elihu Root, lawyer and statesman, who is suffering from bronchial pneumonia at his home, 998 Fifth avenue, was described today as "very weak." Root will be 92 years old on February 15.

Dr. Mark O'Meara, prominent Kingston surgeon and for many years chief of staff of the Benedictine Hospital, died this morning at his home, 110 Maiden Lane. He had been in ill health for several years.

Dr. O'Meara came to Kingston in 1906 and soon afterward became a member of the surgical staff of the hospital. His chief interest was surgery and he enjoyed the reputation of being one of the outstanding surgeons of this section of the state. Outside of his medical interests the doctor was well known in civic affairs and charitable enterprizes and during his career served on numerous committees and in various clubs connected with community activity.

He was born at Clinton, N. Y., on December 25, 1874; the son of Patrick and Bridget (McCabe) O'Meara, and spent his early life at that place. He graduated from Plattsburg High School and was a student at Plattsburg Normal School after which he taught school for several years.

He then attended Albany Medical College from which he graduated in 1903 with the degree, Doctor of Medicine. The following years he did post graduate work and was a post graduate of the New York Polyclinic Hospital in New York city. He began practice in 1904 at Standish.

Dr. O'Meara married Miss Nora Margaret Lahey of New Windsor, Newburgh, on October 1, 1910. He had moved to Kingston four years previously and practiced here until shortly before his death.

During the time Governor Alfred E. Smith was chief executive of the state, Dr. O'Meara was a member of the board of managers of the New York Training School for Girls at Hudson. In 1909 he became a member of the board of managers of the Ulster County TB Hospital and served on that board and as a vice-president for many years. He was for a number of years chairman of clinics, Ulster County Committee for the prevention of Tuberculosis and also the Ulster County Public Health Committee of Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of New York.

In the medical fraternity he was a member of the American Medical Association, a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, a member and former president of the Ulster County Medical Society, A. A. A. S.; member, associate surgical staff at the Kingston Hospital, consultant surgeon, Veterans' Memorial Hospital at Ellenville, Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital and the Memorial Hospital of Greene county at Catskill.

He was a member of the Kingston Club, Knights of Columbus and Twaalfskill Club, and had been a member of the Kingston Rotary Club and the Elks. In politics he was a Republican.

Surviving are his wife, four daughters, Margaret, Mrs. Robert K. Hancock, Dorothy, of Kingston, and Helen at school in Washington, D. C.; a sister, Miss Stella O'Meara, of Kingston, and two brothers, Emmett and Raymond O'Meara.

Funeral services will be held from St. Joseph's Church at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Reach Understanding

Washington, Feb. 6 (AP).—Spokesmen for the Senate and House reached an understanding today which they hoped would permit completion of conressional action Monday on the $950,000,000 relief and deficiency bill. The measure, carrying urgently needed funds for flood victims and unemployed, bogged down two days ago. Chairman Buchanan (D-Tex.) of the House appropriations committee, one of the conferees, said they had reached an understanding.

The Gigantic Task Of Rehabilitation Forges Ahead In Flood Section

Vast Army of Nearly a Million Refugees Begin to Realize the Stunning Individual Effects of Disaster To Their Homes.

DREARY PICTURE

Survey Discloses That Officials Still Have No Idea What the Ultimate Cost Will Be.

(By The Associated Press)

The gigantic task of rehabilitation—far surpassing the aftermath of the San Francisco earthquake and fire in 1906—forged ahead with quickening pace today through the flood-ravaged Ohio River Valley.

Federal and state officials counted the cost in fabulous millions.

All down the 1,000-mile flood trail, from Pittsburgh, to Cairo, Ill., "clean-up" legions of WPA workers pushed the mud and muck-fouled debris back to the river.

And slowly, not unlike a crash victim emerging from shock, a vast army of nearly a million refugees began to realize the stunning individual effects of the disaster as they found what the river had done to their homes.

With the crisis ended, a dreary picture of ruin remained.

Mops, brooms and hoses were brought into action for a Herculean labor which officials said would take three to six months at an estimated cost of $250 per home. Approximately 400,000 homes and buildings were damaged in the 12-day flood emergency period.

A survey of the stricken areas disclosed that officials still have no idea what the ultimate cost will be.

The town of Portsmouth, O., alone, with a population of 442,560, started raising a $200,000 bond issue for flood rehabilitation against an estimated damage toll of between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000.

In Washington, D. C., Senator Joseph T. Robinson, majority leader in Congress, announced the government would provide money for rehabilitation out of the $900,000,000 deficiency relief bill. A committee headed by Senator Robert Wagner (D.-N. Y.) studied the possibilities of liberalizing the laws so persons whose homes and business places have been destroyed may rebuild with government funds.

The loss for West Virginia was placed unofficially at $6,000,000. The WPA administrator for West Virginia reported $170,000 on hand for cleanup work.

Richard F. Allen, Red Cross eastern area manager, estimated $2,000,000 would be required to rehabilitate 117,000 damaged homes in Indiana. Wayne Coy, WPA administrator, said $1,000,000 was available for emergency-relief.

In Cincinnati, the Red Cross had a $500,000 fund to be used, in part, for clothing, furniture and repairs.

WPA Workers Active

Three thousand WPA workers aided in cleaning up the flood-swamped city.

WPA officials in Nashville, Tenn., estimated the damage to water plants, mains and sewage systems in the Cumberland river valley at approximately $500,000.

In sorely-stricken Louisville, Ky., with an estimated damage of $200,000,000 in the Derby City itself, and $150,000,000 more throughout the state, Mayor Neville Miller said he believed reconstruction plans would not be completed for 30 days.

The Missouri legislature appropriated $50,000 for rehabilitation.

At Columbus, O., a flood-prevention conference with representatives from every state in the Ohio river basin—Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Maryland, Tennessee and New York—planned an interstate organization to coordinate federal and state efforts for the prevention of a future disaster.

L. E. Sawyer, regional resettlement administration chief of five mid-west states, said the flood arose from the fact that countless acres on the slopes of the Ohio valley watershed have been denuded of forests and farmed until only a meagre cover of vegetation remains.

Federal soil experts at Washington, D. C., estimated more than 200,000,000 tons of rich top soil were washed away in the Ohio's scouring sweep.

Out of the whole dreary picture, the Associated Press Survey disclosed a single note of cheer. At New Orleans, the state conservation commission announced the fresh flood waters, flowing through the Bonnet Carre spillway into the brackish waters of Lake Pontchartrain, would impart an improved flavor to Louisiana's oysters.

Clues to Slayer

Lombard, Ill., Feb. 6 (AP).—A "swarthy, unkempt" man was sought today as police sifted meager clues which might lead to the slayer of five year old Roger Loomis. Authorities, aided by aroused citizens, hunted for a bearded man who enticed the youth into his automobile Thursday, subsequent hits and then left his strangled body upon a snow-covered roadside early yesterday. From information supplied by the victim's playmates and Mrs. Angie Boone, the police gained a sketchy impression of the man's appearance and the automobile he drove.

Settlement Sought Rather Than Truce In the Auto Strike

Expect No Ejection Of Sit-Down Strikers

Flint, Mich, Feb. 6 (AP).—Tension that has gripped the city of Flint for the past five days appeared to be easing today as the belief spead that there would be no forcible ejection of the sit-down strikers in two General Motors plants.

Although there was no announcement that the men would not be removed, a distinct change in the atmosphere became noticeable late yesterday when Sheriff Thomas W. Wolcott deferred service of writs for the arrest of the strikers.

The feeling of optimism became more evident as reports of the Detroit peace conference reached the city. Many people here, disappointed by the failure of previous conferences, were skeptical of the outcome, but the general opinion seemed to be that an agreement was near.

The sit-down strikers themselves have at no time shown concern over the threats of eviction. Many of them have expressed belief that Governor Frank Murphy would not permit the sheriff to remove them by force.

Sheriff Wolcott, still awaiting a reply to his telegram asking the governor for National Guard assistance in serving the writs, continued to hold up action.

In Detroit, the governor said he had made "no direct reply" to the request.

Conferees Seeking Agreement Meet in Eighth Session Apparently Deadlocked on Union Recognition as Bargaining Agency.

SECRET SESSION

Governor Murphy Continued in Communication with Both Washington and Flint Today.

Detroit, Feb. 6. (AP).—Conferees seeking an agreement that will permit reopening of all General Motors strike-bound plants throughout the country met in their eighth session today still apparently deadlocked on the question of union recognition as sole collective bargaining agency in the 20 plants closed by strikes.

There was no official statement of what constituted the stumbling block in the way of a settlement, but the union demand that it be named sole collective bargaining agency was known to have been virtually the only point discussed so far.

A source close to the conferees said they definitely were seeking a settlement rather than a truce, but that the collective bargaining issue was taken up first as the major question. "This is the settlement conference arranged for at the governor's truce agreement with the opposing sides on January 15," this source said.

While the most cordial relations appear to prevail between William S. Knudsen, vice-president of General Motors Corp., and John L. Lewis, chairman of the committee for industrial organization, the discussions in the courtroom chambers of Recorder Judge George Murphy at times have been vociferous, although not intelligible to those outside.

Asked why only the collective bargaining question had been discussed so far, an authoritative informant said the conferees were apparently of the opinion that all other issues easily could be disposed of.

Secret Session

Knudsen and Lewis held a secret session last night in the apartments of Governor Frank Murphy. It was learned today, however, that the governor purposely absented himself from that meeting.

Governor Murphy continued in communication with both Washington and Flint today, reporting either in person or through James F. Dewey, federal labor conciliator, to the national capital on the progress being made and retaining a firm hand on the situation at Flint where an eviction order against sit-down strikers is held by Sheriff Thomas Wolcott.

The governor has not yet replied to the sheriff's telegram of yesterday asking whether National Guard troops would be placed at his disposal to compel evacuation of two Fisher body plants.

All those attending the conferences were plainly beginning to show the effects of the long drawn out sessions. The impression grew that if an agreement is not reached today no session would be held tomorrow. One conjecture even was heard that failure today would result in a postponement until Tuesday, with a possibility the conversations then might be resumed in Washington.

Study "Definite Problems."

Detroit, Feb. 6 (AP).—Sub-committees from the automobile strike peace conference studied "definite problems" in preparation for the resumption of the meetings of the entire group today.

The eighth session of the conference between leaders of General Motors Corporation and the United Automobile Workers of America, called by Gov. Frank Murphy, was set for 10 a. m. (E. S. T.).

The decision to assign separate problems to smaller groups was reached at last night's session, after which Gov. Murphy announced that the conferees were "making definite progress."

Other than a statement that both the corporation and the union were represented on the sub-committees, no announcement was made concerning their personnel. The explanation that they would "study definite problems" did not indicate what these were.

Recognition of the C. I. O. W. A. as the sole collective bargaining agency for all General Motors employes, as demanded by the union, was understood to be the principal obstacle to settlement of the strike. A report that the union had modified this demand was discounted by one source close to the proceedings.

Secrecy surrounded the discussions of the full conference and also the activities of the smaller groups.

An air of expectancy pervaded Flint, Mich., where one-fourth of the 165,000 residents are General Motors employes and where two plants of the corporation are held by sit-down strikers defying an injunction.

The populace waited calmly for news from the Detroit conference as efforts to remove the men from the Fisher body factories again was delayed.

New West Hurley Road Plans Sent to Supervisors Here

Notification was received this morning by County Superintendent of Highways James F. Loughran that plans and blue prints had been forwarded to the clerk of the board of supervisors on Friday for the reconstruction of the Kingston-West Hurley state highway No. 5173 and that the board of supervisors committee on securing rights of way would be asked on receipt of the blue prints to begin acquiring the rights of ways for the construction of the road which will be over practically a complete new alignment.

The letter from District Engineer J. S. Bixby, of the state department of public works, states: "Under separate cover by parcel post, I am sending you two blue print copies each of land taking maps No. 1 to 38ABC, inc., for land necessary for the reconstruction of the Kingston-West Hurley S. H. No. 5173, Ulster county. I am also enclosing a blue print copy of the advance contract plans for your use in negotiating for this land. These prints will indicate to you not only the location of the center line of the highway but also the proposed grades.

Asks Speedy Action.

"This reconstruction project is listed for reconstruction on the 1937 program and I would ask that you expedite the acquisition of the rights of way as much as possible in order that the same may be advanced for an early letting."

A section of this route runs through state lands and under the state law lands in a forest preserve county may not be disturbed by highway construction without special legislation, since the law forbids the cutting of trees on state lands. The letter from Mr. Bixby states that the two parcels under the jurisdiction of the state of New York conservation department have been negotiated for by the highway department and the conservation department has approved the release of the lands necessary for the highway.

WPA Strikers to Return to Jobs

Reading, Pa., Feb. 6 (AP).—Berks county WPA strikers filed out of county headquarters before dawn today with an agreement to return to their jobs Monday.

They had occupied the building, an abandoned factory converted for WPA use, since Thursday of last week.

During the first days of the strike, Berks county projects employing approximately 4,000 men were paralyzed. Later many of the men returned to work.

District Administrator W. A. Trees threatened to move the headquarters to Lancaster and shut down all projects unless workers returned to their jobs by Monday.

The agreement early today provided that the WPA and strikers were to send representatives to a meeting called by the Federated Trades Council to discuss the dispute.

It was agreed that no property would be closed because of the strike, and that discharged workers would report for work Monday and be assigned to their former jobs.

The Unicorn

The unicorn was supposed to be a one-horned animal of peculiar power, writes the scientific correspondent of the "Manchester Guardian." It was strong, proud and beautiful and the protector of other animals. On account of such chivalrous qualities it was incorporated by James I in the British coat of arms. Myths concerning unicorns appear in the beginning of history. In spite of confident accounts of particular examples, the possible existence of unicorns has been doubted in recent centuries.

GLENFORD

Glenford, Feb. 6—Mr. and Mrs. Philip Costa of Walton are spending a few weeks with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tripicco.

Mrs. James Steenburgh has been ill for the past two weeks.

Mrs. Richard Gray is able to be out again after being ill with the grip.

The young people are enjoying the coasting since the last snowstorm. Their shouts of happy laughter are heard every evening as they trudge up the mountain road and go flying back down on their sleds.

The Men's Club will play its league game Monday night, February 8.

LOST MINER FOUND ALIVE

Robert Johnson spent eight foodless days in utter darkness in an abandoned Flemington, W. Va., coal mine, lost in debris-filled passages. Guided by his weak cries, rescuers found him. Three of the searchers—Bill McDonald, Minor Cleavenger and Lon Smith are shown bracing an outlet of the mine shortly before Johnson was brought out on a stretcher. (Associated Press Photo)

What's Doing in the N.Y. Legislature Today

Legislature in Recess.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 6. (AP).—Today in the New York legislature, both houses in recess until Monday night.

Water Dowsing

Almost all the ancients left records of water divining. The Israelites practiced the art. In ancient England the Druids incorporated the practice into a priestly cult and in Cornwall, where the original Celtic strain survives, it is said that one in forty can "divine." Cicero Tacitus and Agricola all have given written witness of its efficacy.

Perfect Alibi

Uniontown, Pa. — Six-year-old Violet Nussbauner crawled uninjured from beneath an overturned automobile.

"Gee! I'm going to be late for schol if I don't hurry," she exclaimed.

Janet Steele, 30, driver of the car, ruefully examined bruises. She is Violet's teacher.

Story Teller

Middletown, O.—Detective Howard Johnson gained a reputation for realism as a raconteur.

Telling how he had playfully seized a cat by the tail and been clawed, the detective swung his arms, crooked his fingers in demonstration.

Blood oozed from the detective's face—he'd accidentally scratched himself.

Tardy Invite

Rochester, N. Y.—Mayor Charles Staton was proud of his invitation to the inaugural of President Roosevelt January 20.

The only trouble was the time he got it.

He found the engraved card in his mail two weeks late.

Convincing Demonstration

Seattle—A court attache was demonstrating the evils of slot machines to three feminine grand jurors investigating the slot machine racket. The women never had seen one of the things.

He put a nickel in the slot and pulled the lever. Three bells lined up and 18 nickels rattled into the cup below.

"That", he said,, putting the 90 cents in his pocket, "is how it works."

What Congress Is Doing Today

(By The Associated Press)

Today Senate

In recess.

Special committee takes up government reorganization.

Military affairs committee holds hearings on war mobilization plan.

House

In recess.

Hearings on navy and commerce department supply bills continue.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, By the Grace of God Free and Independent,

TO—

John H. Teller, Montgomery, N. Y.
Fannie M. Wilkin, Wallkill, N. Y.
Clara E. Peck, 25 Lake Ave., Middletown, N. Y.
Charles Teller, 214 E. Lincoln Ave., Rochelle Park, N. J.
Anna Kidd, Walden, N. Y.
Nellie Mason, 71 Garden St., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Clarence Teller, Montgomery, N. Y.
Rachel Merkle, 322 Onondaga St., Syracuse, N. Y.
Addie Bishop, Syracuse, N. Y.

The foregoing being children of Isaac D. F. Teller, a deceased brother of testator, Marion S. Gray, 2424 77th Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.

Frederick Schenck, 1213 S. Main St., Pleasantville, N. J.

Children of John D. F. Schenck, deceased, a nephew of the testator.

The legal representatives of the heirs at law, next of kin, legatees or distributees, if any, of HELEN M. TELLER, deceased, she being the widow of George S. Teller, a deceased brother of said testator, the names and addresses of said representatives, heirs at law, next of kin, and distributees being to petitioner unknown, and to all persons interested in the estate of JAMES C. TELLER, late of the Town of Shawangunk, County of Ulster, and State of New York, deceased, as creditors, legatees, distributees, or otherwise, GREETING

YOU AND EACH OF YOU ARE HEREBY CITED TO SHOW CAUSE at a Surrogate's Court to be held in and for the County of Ulster at the Surrogate's Office in the City of Kingston, N. Y., on the 23rd day of March, 1937, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, why the account of proceedings of Frank J. Wilkin of the Town of Shawangunk, County of Ulster and State of New York, as executing executor and trustee under the Will of said deceased should not be judicially settled and allowed upon the petition of said executor and trustee, and that upon said accounting the court construe subdivision "d" of paragraph THIRD of said Will and determine the rights and shares, if any, of the persons entitled, below at law, next of kin, legatees or distributees, if any, of said Helen M. Teller, and the rights and shares, if any, of said Marion S. Gray and of said Frederick Schenck.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, We have caused the seal of said Surrogate's Court to be hereunto affixed. WITNESS, Hon. George T. Kaufman, Surrogate of our said County of Ulster at Kingston, N. Y., this 2nd day of February, 1937.

(Seal) E. TOMPKINS,
Clerk of the Surrogate's Court

Early Carlsbad

A museum in Carlsbad has relics that bring back the 500 years' history of this famous spa, says the Rocky Mountain Herald. Carlsbad, according to legend, was founded by Karl IV, King of Bohemia, who wounded a hart with his arrow while hunting in the district. All trace of the hart was lost, but later it was discovered bathing its wounds at a well. The water of this well, being examined, was found to have healing qualities. Scenes of the early days of Carlsbad are shown in pictures, among them one of Wallenstein's entry during the Thirty Year War. Ancient literature about the spa includes a "Tractatus de Thermis Caroli Quarti" from 1521. The collection of local art includes the Carlsbad china goods, glassware and the work of local goldsmiths and there are many reminiscences of famous guests, such as Schiller, Goethe, Turgenieff, Bismarck.

In the year just past the Town Board of the Town of Olive was called upon to act upon many matters of importance. One matter brought to the attention of the Board was the question of delay in the receipt of WPA checks by those employed as laborers on WPA Projects, the checks being delayed as long as thirty days after the pay period had elapsed, causing a hardship on those who had to wait. This matter was taken care of by a Resolution passed by the Town Board which established a Special Fund of $500.00, by transferring this amount from the General Fund and upon order of the Town Highway Superintendent the amount due each worker from the Federal Government was advanced on their particular checks due them until such time as the Federal Check arrived and at that time the Special Fund was reimbursed.

On January 2, 1936, a resolution was passed to pay fixed or earned salaries of Town Officials and employes each month, instead of once a year.

A resolution was adopted on April 1, 1936, authorizing the Town of Olive to become a member of the Association of Towns. This was done for additional assistance in maintaining our system of Town Government rather than a central government of all towns.

On April 8, 1936, a resolution was passed authorizing the Supervisor to employ such legal aid or to take such steps in the best interest of the town in contesting a petition brought before the Public Service Commission by the New York Central Railroad for discontinuing the Agent at the Ashokan Station between September 15th and March 15th of each year. This would have been a serious handicap to the People of the Town of Olive as it would practically close the only station in the Town of Olive for eight months each year. I wish at this time to extend thanks in behalf of the town for liberal assistance given by members of the Town Board. Citizens of the town and the attorney who represented the town and finally succeeded in winning a favorable decision from the Public Service Commission for year round service of the Ashokan Station.

Another resolution was adopted authorizing the Supervisor to take necessary steps to submit plans to the Commission of the New York City Department of Water, Gas and Electricity for the purpose of obtaining a permit to construct a new highway over their property on Benekill Hill so as to eliminate a dangerous curve and construct this road to its end to meet the road at the Marbletown Town line. This was done with the aid of Federal Funds covering a Blanket Project of 4 roads of which the Benekill Road was one. This road is nearing completion at a very small cost to the town and considerable improvement in the alignment.

On August 13th resolution was adopted authorizing the purchase of a trailer for the purpose of moving machinery and equipment. This has made possible the moving of shovel and roller of the town in considerable less time and a saving of equipment since this equipment was never intended to take long trips under its own power.

A question was brought before the Town Board concerning the protection from the companies of the adjoining hamlets of Woodstock and Phoenicia through use of their equipment. It was discovered that according to regulations of the insurance companies covering their equipment and men, that protection of the respective companies ceased outside of their own town line. This fact made it impossible for them to assist in fighting fires in other towns. On October 1, 1936, the Town Board passed a resolution to safeguard the Town of Olive in case of fire by insuring the men and equipment of the fire companies of Phoenicia and Woodstock if called and while in our town. Arrangements have been made to use the services of the aforementioned companies. In case of fire the residents of the Town of Olive are requested to notify any member of the Town Board, the Superintendent, who in turn will relay the message for assistance.

It was also brought to the attention of the Town Board that the Town of Olive owned considerable Road Machinery and that the Town find the adequate place for the storage of same. A resolution was adopted that authorized a committee to investigate the matter and report to the Town Board that a suitable location could be obtained by the purchase of property near the property now occupied by Mr. Conover. A resolution was adopted to purchase same.

A resolution was also adopted authorizing the purchase of Voting Machines as required by law.

One very important project obtained from the Federal Government was the rebuilding of the Funkhill Stream. By action of the Town Board authorizing the Supervisor and Town Superintendent to make such measurements along places on this stream that were endangered by flood waters and making estimates of timbers, material and equipment, and labor it has been possible to do the necessary cribbing and excavating so as to make an uninterrupted passage of excessive water during the Spring time floods. The amount of damage caused each year to residents of West Shokan and those in the Funkhill section was brought to the attention of the Engineers in charge of Flood Control of the Federal Government. After several hearings we were accepted a project worked up by their engineers for the amount of cribbing and excavating as originally submitted. This work resulted in at least a saving of 75 per cent to the town.

Projects that have been completed during the year past are as follows:

High Point Road-Samsonville Road from Jobs to County Highway in Samsonville.

Fly Road from County Highway past Arthur Freebridge residence to Town line of Olive and Marbletown.

Sheldon Hill Road from County Road at Henry Winchell's to Krumville-Samsonville Road at Ellis Patterson's.

Beekerkill Road (nearing completion).

Funkhill Cribbing Job.

With the aid of County and Federal Aid approximately $25,000 has been obtained and used in the Town of Olive in 1936. This has been for the permanent good of the Town of Olive as we see it, by the taxpayers.

Respectfully Submitted
D. F. DE BOOS
Supervisor of Town of Olive

Guns And Guards Stand Grimly Over Strike Torn City

In County Granges

Lake Katrine

Lake Katrine, Feb. 5—The regular meeting of the Grange held Monday evening was well attended. The committee appointed for installing a new pump reported it ready for use and received a rising vote of thanks. Mrs. M. D'Aigle, chairman of meals, served at the Horticultural Meet, turned in $153.41 proceeds and thanked the ladies and Mr. Mantanani for their help.

Worthy Master Morehouse called attention to a letter received from A. Kurdt, asking for contributions for flood sufferers. The Grange Hall will be opened all day Monday and evening for donations of food. Mrs. H. Furguson is soliciting clothing, and by phoning her at 54-W-1 she will make arrangements to call for it. The town superintendents are donating trucks. $10 was voted to Red Cross.

The local 4-H Club has asked the privilege of using the hall for a dance February 25. This request was granted.

I. C. Barnes, president of Grange Officers' Association, is calling a meeting at the New Paltz Grange hall Wednesday evening, February 10. Anyone from the local Grange desiring to attend may call Mr. Morehouse and transportation will be arranged. Each car is to furnish a covered dish and sandwiches for its own party.

The following program was thoroughly enjoyed:

Chorus, "When You and I Were Young" ..... Grange
Solo and Tableaux, "Silver Threads Among the Gold" .....
Mrs. H. D'Aigle, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wilke.
Talk on taxes ..... Pratt Boice
Reading, "Grandpa's Valentine" and Tableaux .....
Nancy Boice and Mr. Wilke
Reading, "Origin of St. Valentine's Day" ..... Mrs. F. Forde
Tableaux, "Juanita" .....
Edmund Osterhoudt and Mrs. Ralph Hummel. Music, Mrs. Donald Parish, piano; Wesley Parish, violin.
Reading, "Loveliest Things You Know" ..... Mrs. W. Hookey
Tableaux, "John Alden and Priscilla" ..... Lewis Boice and Jane Roosa
Reading, "Wurra, Wurra, Wurra" .....
Mrs. Kenneth Parish
Tableaux, "Robin Adair" .....
Mrs. E. Rowland

The items of information brought by members in response to the question, "Did you know?," furnished some very interesting facts.

Valentines had been delivered to the officers containing original verses which caused much amusement.

The February committee with Mrs. Arthur Osterhoudt, chairman, served sandwiches, cake, coffee and tea.

Fungi Vary in Size but Are Animals in Spirit

The word fungus has a sinister sound. We usually think of it as the mold that grows on bread, or the dry rot that destroys wood, or the whitish fur that grows on things that are kept in warm, damp places or as the organisms that cause certain annoying skin infections.

But still we must give them due credit for their services to us, writes Dr. Thomas M. Beck in the Chicago Tribune. Fungi make up a class of living creatures about as numerous and as varied as the members of the animal kingdom. According to our lights, they may be good, bad, or indifferent.

Fungi, broadly defined, range in size from microscopic organisms comparable to the bacteria, through the barely visible molds and mildew, up to such easily recognizable forms as the mushroom. They are plants in body but animals in spirit. They have plantlike forms and their manner of reproduction is more or less like that of the more primitive types of plants.

But they differ from most plants in one important respect, perhaps the most important difference between plants and animals. Fungi are not green. The difference is more than one of color. The green of grass and of leaves is due to the presence of a complex pigment known as chlorophyll. This material is the catalyst that combines energy from the sun, water from the soil, and carbon dioxide from the air to form sugar or starch or cellulose. Without it there could be no plant life, or, for that matter, life of any kind.

Tibetan Prayer Wheels Are Operated by Hand

Tibetan prayer wheels are operated by hand, but there is one on exhibit in a New York museum, says the Washington Post, equipped with a tin propeller to be spun by the wind.

Each wheel contains a tightly packed roll of paper printed with thousands of repetitions of the sacred sentence, "Om mani padme hum." Each spin of the wheel, devout Lamaists believe, is equivalent to saying as many prayers as the number of sentences on the wheel.

Each Tibetan carries a prayer wheel, which he uses almost constantly. Each Lamaist monastery has several massive prayer wheels containing hundreds of thousands of complete turnings of the sacred "Om." One of these, by operating steadily 24 hours, has completed the equivalent of an average for the entire year of more than 300,000 prayers a day. And to credit himself with a prayer a minute for the whole year, he needs only to spin it 150 times.

BOILED SHIRT CRISIS

The latest news from the diplomatic sector of Moscow is serious indeed. Ambassadors, ministers and secretaries are in a stew over their linen. They can't get their boiled shirts laundered. With a greater demand than ever for this luxury service—which is of course a bed-rock essential of existence among diplomats—the Red capital has broken down. There is a dearth of laundries, laundrymen and starch. Very likely of soap and flatirons, too, and whatever else it takes to make a shirt shiny and uncomfortable.

In a truly civilized and sane world, such a situation would probably be regarded as blessed. Men would cheerfully wear comfortable shirts even to swell parties; and from that, they might proceed to other phases of sartorial comfort and sanity. But sanity is one thing and civilization another, and probably never the twain shall meet.

We expect nothing else from diplomats, but are surprised by the native Muscovites. They themselves seem to be going in heavily for boiled shirts, wing collars, long tails, patent leather shoes and all the paraphernalia of social regimentation customary in our capitalistic dictatorships. Communist women, even working women, grow resplendent in silks. Where now are the soiled khaki and sweaters in which Bolshevism successfully defied the world?

Stalin has reason to worry. Bolshevism is slipping—slipping.

RADIO MUSIC

At a big party given in honor of his 75th birthday, Dr. Walter Damrosch was asked what he saw for this country in the next quarter of a century. "America is going to become one of the greatest musical countries of the world—thanks to radio," he replied.

Dr. Damrosch himself has done much to make it so. His broadcast concerts and talks on music have reached a huge audience of school children and have contributed more than can be measured to young America's musical education and appreciation.

There are times when it seems as if the radio must destroy music in this country with its outpouring of cheap and noisy stuff. But like the amount of crime in the newspapers, the amount of jazz that comes from the loudspeaker is really a smaller share than is realized. The good stuff has been gaining steadily in program time and in number of listeners. Symphony orchestra concerts, grand opera, the greatest violinists and singers and pianists, are now frequently heard on the air. Radio takes them into homes far from the music halls and other concert facilities of the big cities. Dr. Damrosch does well to remind us of this.

ROOM IN CITIES

If American cities seem crowded, it is not from their lack of available space. The Chicago City Plan Commission finds that although nearly half of the local population live in apartments, there is so much vacant land within the city's area that all could live in single and two-family houses with enough space around them for air and privacy. The people are not using their resources.

According to Herbert U. Nelson, secretary of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, this is a fair picture of American cities in general. With the possible exception of New York, he says, our cities could provide individual homes for all their people within their present boundaries.

It is not necessary, and not desirable, to abolish apartment houses and family hotels. There will always be a demand for such quarters, and those who want them have a right to them. But obviously it is not crowding, not limited room for expansion, that drives people to herd together in down-town apartments and tenements. It is largely a habit that people got into when transportation was expensive and difficult. They do not seem yet to realize the freedom available for them if they want it.

SAND, ROCK AND WIND

Two famous authorities on democracy have spoken, and their words are worth noting and comparing.

Benito Mussolini in Italy tells a correspondent of Adolf Hitler's Berlin newspaper: "Democracy is finished. Democracies today are simply the centers of infection—the tools for Bolshevism. That is one group. We are the other group. Democracy is like sand driven by wind. Our political ideal is a rock like a granite peak." Hitler responds, in his speech denouncing the Versailles treaty, with the revelation that the Nazi system itself "is the most beautiful and perfect democracy."

All this is confusing to simple-minded people like us, who used to think we knew something about democracy, and are inclined to think that we still practice it with some success. If democracy is finished over here, we haven't noticed it. As for Herr Hitler's contribution, to any normal American aware of how political liberty has been stifled in Germany, it is the most beautiful and perfect idiocy we've heard in this goofy era.

RAW APPLE DIET

Although diarrhoea in infants and children is more common during warm or hot weather, nevertheless there is a large number of children who from various causes develop diarrhoea and immediate and effective treatment must be given.

Fortunately, baby specialists, by prescribing special diets, are able to correct the ordinary cases of diarrhoea and constipation, but when the diarrhoea is rapidly pulling down the child's strength, an effective method of stopping the drain on the system must be used.

I have spoken on two occasions about the use of the raw apple diet in infantile diarrhoea as used in both America and England, and how this simple, and easily given treatment has brought relief to the children and peace and happiness to mothers.

It is gratifying then to learn of the use of ordinary raw apples in infantile diarrhoea by Drs. S. F. Bakal and R. M. Sigal, Paris, in Archives of Children's Medicine, Paris.

"These physicians report 51 cases of diarrhoea in infants. Twenty-eight children were less than two years of age, 18 were between two and five, and five ranged from six to 10. In all cases Drs. Bakal and Sigal gave a diet of apples for 48 hours without any preliminary or preparatory treatment (nothing such as castor oil or other purgative to clear out the bowel). Two of the children refused the apples but all the others took the treatment for the two days. The skins and cores of the apples were removed. In most cases the children ate the apples willingly. During this diet the patient received no other nourishment. Liquids were given as needed.

The first day after the two days' diet of apples, the patients were given such foods as rice, gruel, bouillon and gelatin. By the third day vegetable puree (strained vegetable soup) could be given.

The results were good in all cases. Toward the end of the second and third days, the stool became formed, the general conditions improved, the general toxic (poisoned) symptoms disappeared, and the temperature fell. During the apple diet the weight of the children decreased but soon returned rapidly to normal."

From their experience with this large number of cases these physicians believe that the rapidity of action, and the harmlessness of the apple diet should cause it to be used more, both at home and in hospital.

ESCAPE IF YOU CAN

BY FREDERICK JACKSON

SYNOPSIS Count Vronski, who was blackmailing Anne Phelps with love letters, is shot dead in Anne's studio Bigelow, the American from Paris, finds Anne and Karsanikoff, the glamorous dancer, staring at the corpse. They hide it during a party, then Bigelow and Dr Austrelitz, the psychologist, move it to Vronski's rooms Police arrest Thorne Dryden, a wealthy chap who hated Vronski and his wife, Lorna, disappears Anne and Bigelow seek her at Toppy Kane's big vacant house in Westchester. Bigelow has to climb the wall to get in.

Chapter 20

Penetrating Lorna's Hideout

TOPPY was dressed in tweed plus-fours, woolen stockings and stout boots, a leather jacket that had a slide fastener in front was strained to span her ample hips, a canary colored scarf was knotted at her throat and she had on soiled woolen gloves. She looked enormous in her strange apparel—a truly awesome sight. But if Bigelow was astonished when he recognized her, Toppy was speechless as she recognized him.

"Oh," said Bigelow disarmingly, "hope I didn't startle you. I rang the gate bell ever so many times, but nothing happened."

"It doesn't ring," growled Toppy. "Where in God's name did you come from, anyway, and what brings you here?"

"I came with Anne. She's waiting outside the gates in the car."

"But how did you get in?"

"Climbed the wall." He smiled at her pleasantly.

"But why, for God's sake?"

"Anne will tell you all about it. If you'll let me have the key, I'll go and unlock the gates and she can drive in."

"Oh, can she?" repeated Toppy grimly. "You're most polite but I can see quite plainly I have no choice in the matter, now that you know I am here. Laugh if you like. I've seen myself in the glass so I know how I look. But I find this a very practical costume for bringing in wood for the fires and other necessary chores it belonged to the recent owner—Mr Cornelius Hewitt—who, by the grace of God, bulged in all the right places. Right for me, I mean, of course. Just a minute and I'll go out with you and speak to Anne. You've got to know to know how to handle that gate."

She crossed to the table, opened a drawer and after fishing about for a moment, found the key.

"Come along," she said, closing the door carefully behind her. They crunched along the driveway side by side. Toppy was silent, frowning, deep in thought, and Bigelow did not interrupt her meditations. Anne saw them through the gate and called and waved excitedly.

"How in the name of God," cried Toppy, "did you get the idea of looking for me, here? I've never stayed here before in my life and with ordinary luck I'll never stay here again! And why were you so anxious to find me?"

"To reach Lorna," explained Anne, through the gate.

"Lorna—?" repeated Toppy vaguely.

"Lorna Dryden. Isn't she here with you?" cried Anne.

"No, of course not. Whatever put that in your head? Isn't she in town?" asked Toppy curiously.

Anne stared at her in dismay. "Open the gates," she begged. "We can't go on talking like this!"

Toppy unlocked them. Bigelow opened them, and Anne drove in.

"Close them again, please," ordered Toppy. "It probably hasn't occurred to you, but I came here to be undisturbed." And she locked the gates again decisively.

'It's a Kind Of Soup'

"BUT why, Toppy, if it wasn't to hide Lorna?" asked Anne.

"Why?" repeated Toppy vaguely. "I don't know. It was a sudden impulse. I wanted to get away by myself somewhere and think something out—and suddenly I thought of this place. . . But why should I want to hide Lorna? What's she done?"

"Nobody knows. But she's disappeared. Is she really not here with you, Toppy? We've got to find her."

"You can search the house if you like," said Toppy.

Anne sighed. "But where else can she be? I was sure we'd find her here with you."

"No one can guess where that one might be," said Toppy. "Have you told anyone else your suspicions? Am I to expect a procession of visitors, now?"

"No," said Anne reassuringly. "We told nobody. Nobody knows we're here. So—if you'll give us a warm drink—we'll go away again and you can continue to enjoy your solitude in peace. Though why on earth you should want to stay here by yourself—?"

"Don't ask indiscreet questions," said Toppy. "When a girl who isn't married at the moment decides to seek solitude, don't ask why."

She unlocked the front door and ushered them into a vast hall.

"Better come into the kitchen," she said, looking about her. "I haven't bothered dusting here, but the kitchen is clean and warm."

They followed her into the kitchen, obediently. There was a good fire going in the stove there, and the air was fragrant with the aroma of something delicious cooking.

"What is it that smells so divine?" asked Anne, going straight to the stove to sniff.

"Soup. That is—a kind of soup," explained Toppy as she began to get down glasses and pour out the drinks. "I invented it years ago in Kansas to save trouble when I had to cook for myself. You put everything in—meat, vegetables, everything—and have them all together."

"It sounds marvelous," said Bigelow, mis hievously. "We'd stay to luncheon, if we were urged. There seems to be plenty."

"I don't think you'd like it," responded Toppy discouragingly.

"I'm sure we would," Anne assured her.

Toppy turned to look at them witheringly. And at that instant the door opened and a girl came in—a very pretty dark girl in a mink coat.

Topp: Laments Her Let

BIGELOW turned in astonishment to stare as the girl advanced rather uncertainly. Anne cried, "Lorna—!" and went to meet her and they kissed. Meanwhile, Toppy was crying out wrathfully:

"Well, I'm a so and so! You make a swear myself red in the face that you're not here and I know nothing whatever about you, and then walk in quite calmly and make a liar out of me!"

"Sorry, darling," cried Lorna penitently, advancing to perch on the edge of the kitchen table. "Naturally I didn't mean you to lie to Anne! I'd no idea she'd come looking for me. But when the banging came at the door and you peeped out between the slats, you said all you could see was a strange young man." Her eyes flashed to Bigelow.

"Mr Bigelow—Mrs Dryden," said Toppy with a wave of the big wooden soup spoon. "I didn't recognize you through the slit in the shutter—that's all I meant when I called you strange!"

"I hope so," murmured Bigelow, smiling.

"So of course I said 'Say I'm not home!'" added Lorna, after nodding at Bigelow to acknowledge the introduction. "Give me a cigarette."

Anne held out her case, and Toppy continued pouring and serving the drinks. As Bigelow struck a match, Toppy went on grumblingly. "I may be wrong, but it seems to me other people's friends aren't always letting them in for things! This is the first time she's deigned to get out of bed since we arrived here! I've had to carry her meals up to her. She finds the house cold—which only to be expected when you stop to think it's been shut up for years. But she would come here! I'd never have dreamed of it! And she wouldn't wear Cornelius's clothes. Betty, I assume you didn't leave anything of hers behind her."

"Now Toppy—" put in Lorna, grinning. But Toppy was not to be so easily silenced.

"And mind you, I foresaw all this. I'm not an idiot! I tried to reason with her before we left town, but no—we mustn't stop to pack anything! I did manage to throw in a hot-water bottle, thank God, and this liquor! And by a miracle, my cook had just ordered in a supply of food stuffs so we just dumped the lot into the back of the car. Otherwise, I suppose we'd have starved. Do I or don't I have the damnedest friends?"

"Do stop raving, there's a dear," drawled Lorna. "Anne and I have got really important things to say to each other."

Toppy snorted and, having distributed the drinks, sat down and lighted a cigarette.

"Now," said Lorna, turning to Anne and crossing her legs to be more comfortable. As the mink coat parted, Bigelow observed that she was wearing a flame colored evening wrap and slippers to match. She was a pretty little thing, with dark eyes that had a way of opening wide, a three-cornered mouth that never quite closed, and distracting dimples. Her nails were the same shade as her lip rouge and her frock.

"Tell me," she breathed, "how you came to think of looking here for me? I thought no one would ever dream of this place! I suppose you missed Toppy—?"

Yes," nodded Anne, "and Madge said she'd gone to Kansas and I knew nothing would ever persuade her to go back there."

"Nothing," declared Toppy grimly, and with finality.

"But you don't think anyone else will think of looking here, do you?" asked Lorna. "Because if you do, we can't stay here, and I don't know where else I can go."

The Howling Wind

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

IT began to snow and the air soon became thick and heavy with the swirling snowflakes.

The wind started to blow and it blew the snow this way and that and into great, enormous drifts.

"I'm sorry we let him go. It was my fault," said Willy Nilly, as he thought of Christopher Columbus Crow out in the storm.

"We became too curious over the mystery of it all. We can get along without mystery."

"You mustn't worry, Willy Nilly," Rip growled softly, as he put his head in Willy Nilly's lap. "Christopher will hide among the trees or somewhere in the underbrush where the wind won't get at him, and the snow drifts will not be bad."

"I suppose I'm a foolish little man to worry," said Willy Nilly. "Christopher is a good, strong crow, and he doesn't take foolish chances. But I did let my curiosity get the better of me."

"He'll be all right. I know he will," barked Rip. But the dog, too, felt a little uneasy. In fact they all did. For, as they talked, the wind began to howl more and more, the snow drifted higher and higher and it became such a blizzard that no one could have seen more than an arm's length away.

"He'll be there by now," said Willy Nilly. "He won't be traveling in this storm. There's that much for which to be thankful."

But as he spoke the wind tore off the branches of some of the Puddle Muddle trees.

"Whew-ew-ew—oooooooooooo," shrieked the wind. Crash and bang went the branches. Swirrrrrrrrrr, wildly fluttered the snow. And Christopher was not at home.

HOMESPUN YARN

Rice that "pops" like popcorn is a new product for home use.

The secret of youthful looks in an aged face is easy shoes, easy corsets, and an easy conscience, according to one old saying.

When buying a washing machine, notice, among other things, if the moving parts are easily lubricated, when and where the oil is applied, and what kind of oil is best.

Starch or flour is added to a baking powder mixture during the manufacturing process to absorb moisture from the air and to prevent the loss of gas before the baking powder is used.

For fairer competition and profits, according to a recent report, one baker's association has decided to discontinue premiums with their products.

After washing cotton or silk gloves that have fancy colored stitching or trimming, stuff them with white tissue paper or with other materials to keep the color from running.

Brides or other women who plan a new home or a new kitchen, may find helpful hints in Cornell bulletin E-357, "A Useful Supply of Kitchenware." Single copies may be had free from the Office of Publication, Roberts Hall, Ithaca, New York.

Many Marriage Customs Survive in Old England

Marriage charms and luck-bringers are regarded as superstitions, but their continuance may be encouraged because the desire to be happy, which cannot be put into words, must be expressed in symbolic action. The bride-pie, bride-knives, robbing the bride-pins, wedding-gloves and garters have all contributed to the merriment associated with marriage in Britain.

Many ancient superstitions survive, relates a writer in Pearson's London Weekly. Before the sewing-machine was imported to England from New York in 1846, the bride was expected to prepare a dozen of every article of underclothing beforehand. Clothes were then worn long and full—with tucks, embroidery, lace and bows of satin-ribbon.

Ready-made, machine-stitched articles were unknown. By the time she had produced "twelve of everything" the woman thoroughly understood that she was meant to work to keep life going.

The old shoe used to be thrown at the couple. The custom came from ancient Egypt, through the Jews, who at sales removed and gifted a shoe, to confirm the transfer of property.

The bride-cake is intended as the emblem of fruitfulness. In Yorkshire and Northumberland the cake is cut into square slices, thrown over the heads of bride and bridegroom, and then put nine times through the wedding ring.

Rare Asiatic Buffalo

Seladangs, a rare Asiatic buffalo, in spite of their size, are very fleet and difficult to catch. At one time they inhabited most of the thickly wooded hills of India, in herds, but in recent years their numbers have been reduced. Their horns are curved and they have humps on their backs. They have three calls, a bellow, a low moaning cry and a whistling snort.

A Washington Daybook

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—That hand-set telephone the average telephone user has or aspires to costs the American Telephone and Telegraph Company about $5, says the federal communications commission, but the patron pays $7 to $42.50 for it.

The patron, after paying the charges for it, doesn't own it. He just continues to use it, at the usual telephone rates, until he moves to another town. Then, if he wants his hand-set again, he starts paying on another.

Paul A. Walker, member of the federal communications commission, testified before the house appropriations committee "off the record" about costs of the hand-set telephone. But seemingly the "off the record" idea didn't take with the stenographer so it all appeared neatly buried in a 441-page report on the first deficiency bill.

$23,000,000

WALKER told the committee in his "off the record" discourse that the hand-set telephone actually was an economy to the company and had saved it since its introduction about $85,000,000 in wire costs, plant maintenance and the like.

Moreover, Walker estimated that the company had pocketed about $23,000,000 additional by charging patrons more than the set cost.

He named several states, such as Wisconsin, where the extra charge for a hand-set was about 8 cents to 25 cents a month until the set was liquidated. The telephone user, by these monthly charges, paid the company usually about $7 a set, Walker said, but he pointed out that in Mississippi the luxury of a hand-set at one time ran up to $42.50.

His information was based on data gathered up to January 1, 1936, in a commission investigation. He said the investigation had prompted many reductions.

Walker let out this information in support of a request for $350,000 more to carry on the investigation of the company. Already more than a million has been spent. The house voted the additional money.

Hull's Lunch

SECRETARY OF STATE HULL, a Tennesseean, is about the politest man on earth, southern, and all that, yet when he is invited to a Presidential luncheon he usually takes the precaution of eating a lunch in his own office before crossing the street to the White House.

Our information is that the President never really has sought to starve his number-one secretary but Hull simply doesn't like to waste time eating during conferences with his chief.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Gross Income, Net Income, and Surtax Net Income

Three of the terms used in the income-tax law, namely, gross income, net income, and surtax net income, should be noted particularly, inasmuch as they are vitally important to the whole subject of the income tax.

Gross income includes in general all income from any source whatever, unless exempt from tax by law. The gross income of the usual business consists of the gross profits on sales, plus any income from investments and incidental or outside operations or sources. The return must show the gross sales, purchases, and cost of goods sold. To reflect income correctly, inventories are necessary at the beginning and end of each taxable year.

A lawyer, doctor, architect, physician, dentist, clergyman, author, or other professional man must include in gross income all fees, salaries, and compensation of any kind for professional services.

Net income upon which the tax is assessed is gross income less the deductions allowed by law. Such deductions include business and professional expenses, such as salaries, pensions, and bonuses to employees, taxes, losses, interest paid, bad debts, depreciation, depletion, contributions, etc. Failure to understand deductions against gross income and credits against net income has resulted in numerous errors on the part of taxpayers.

An earned income credit is provided in addition to the personal exemption and credit for dependents, etc., for the purpose of computing the normal tax. Having arrived at the net income the next step is to deduct the personal exemption and credit for dependents. The balance represents the surtax net income. The next step is to deduct from such balance the earned income credit and other credits to which the taxpayer is entitled. The remainder represents the amount of net income subject to the normal tax of 4 per cent. Any amount of surtax net income which is in excess of $4,000 is subject to the surtax. The surtax is to be computed in accordance with the rates provided for in the various so-called surtax brackets.

Forbidden

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

If Bluebeard's wife had never been specially warned not to enter the one particular room, the chances are that she would never have gone into it. Of course a very good story would have been lost, but no doubt a great deal of trouble would have been saved.

The surest way to make a person want to do a thing is to tell him not to do it, and especially is this true of children, who are still too young to reason or to foresee possibilities.

The mother who warns her child not to put beans up his nose in her absence, is pretty sure to come home to find he has done the very thing she feared. To warn a child not to play with matches at once suggests to him the idea of playing with matches. The very fact that he was forbidden to do so makes him nervous and so doubles the chance of his burning the house down.

Human nature has this peculiarity and has had it since the dawn of time.

If for any reason a little child is to be left alone, all forbidden and dangerous objects should be unobtrusively put out of reach, and he should be supplied with material enough to hold his interest until his mother, or whoever is in charge, returns. With an older child, a good and sufficient reason which the child accepts as valid should be given when he is warned of limitations.

Parents frequently "lead their children into temptation" by asking of them the impossible. When the mischief has been done they have only themselves to blame. It is useless to say "I told him to leave the matches alone." It was that very telling that made the trouble.

Arrests in Philadelphia totaled nearly 100,000 less in 1936 than in 1935, the police bureau reports. The 1936 figure was 195,162.

Johnson Regains Strength.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Feb. 6 (AP).—Robert Johnson, his body shrunken 43 pounds by eight days of imprisonment in an abandoned mine, regained strength today. The 36-year-old rural mail carrier said he was determined to return to his work in the Flemington mine, where he became lost taking a short cut to open a clogged drain. Physicians estimated Johnson's eight days without food reduced his weight to about 125 pounds. A heavy beard still outlined his face. His hands and arms ached but Johnson was cheerful.

Former Banker Dead.

Philadelphia, Feb. 6 (AP).—Archibald Barklie, 73, former New York and Newark, N. J., banker, died last night in a Bryn Mawr Hospital.

Many Pneumonia Cases in Kingston

There Have Been 76 Cases Reported in City Since First of Year With Nine Deaths From the Disease—Milder Weather Follows Cold Snap.

The exceptionally mild winter that has so far prevailed in Kingston has been the cause of many cases of pneumonia, and thousands of cases of heavy colds and grip attacks in the city. Since the first of the year there were 76 cases of pneumonia reported in the city, resulting in nine deaths from the disease. So far this month there have been 11 cases of pneumonia reported and 65 cases were reported to the health board in January.

The winter has been marked by the fact that no zero weather has been experienced. The lowest point recorded by the official city thermometer was eight degrees above zero recorded early this week and 10 degrees above zero also reported this week.

The two days of close to zero temperature were followed by snow and rising temperature on Friday. Today the temperature was again above the freezing point with sunshiny skies.

The cold weather earlier in the week had frozen the Rondout creek over from shore to shore. The only open water in the creek is below the Island Dock to the creek mouth. The lower creek is kept open by the swells from the ferry and the action of the tide. So far this winter the ferry has experienced no trouble from the ice and has been running close to schedule.

The cold spell, however, put an end to river towing for the season.

Reagan Hits World Problems in Talk To County Endeavor

The annual banquet, sponsored by the Ulster County Christian Endeavor Union in commemoration of the founding of the Christian Endeavor movement, was held last night at the Reformed Church of the Comforter with a registered attendance of over 100 Endeavorers and friends of the young people's organization.

The occasion was a success from every angle and featured a splendid address by Professor William J. Reagan of the Oakwood School of Poughkeepsie.

Program of Entertainment

Promptly at 6:30 the dinner was served under the capable direction of Mrs. Howard Aliton assisted by several ladies of the church. During the course of the dinner, "Chuck" Kelse and his gang rendered some fine music that added greatly to the spirit of the occasion.

Donald H. Smith, acting as master of ceremonies, introduced a program that included a selection by the Albany Avenue Baptist String Quartet, a violin solo by Harold Canfield, a duet by Grace Aliton and Douglas Kennedy, and two tenor solos by Douglas Kennedy.

County President Miss Mary Langwick spoke briefly concerning the aim of Christian Endeavor in the coming year and then gave way to the Rev. B. Russell Branson, pastor of the Friends' Church at Clintondale, who introduced the speaker of the evening, Professor William J. Reagan, whose topic was, "Little People and Big Issues."

Professor Reagan in treating his topic spoke of unrest in Europe, war plans, and the racial issue, defending the right of negroes and those of the yellow race, and how they are oppressed by supposedly Christian white men. He also spoke of education as being too far away from reality at times and impractical in dealing with the facts of life; and defended religion as essential although some people regard it as not necessary any more.

60,000 Children At Communion

Manila, Feb. 6 (AP).—A tropical sun pierced clouds over Luneta Park today and brightened the spectacle of 60,000 children attending Mass and receiving Holy Communion in the outdoor cathedral of the 33d International Eucharistic Congress.

The children, joined by about 40,000 adults, created a striking picture in their white costumes and uniforms of Boy Scouts and Catholic school youths.

The youthful worshippers listened attentively as Father Francis X. Ford of China explained the Holy Communion which 300 priests administered before the great Eucharistic Altar on the shores of Manila Bay.

Father Ford told them the church pins its hope on the children of today, expecting them to be the soldiers of Christ tomorrow.

Dennis Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia, papal legate, said the Congress has been "everything I've prayed for."

The final Eucharistic procession tomorrow, ending at Luneta Park, where the closing benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will be celebrated and the radio message of Pope Pius XI will be heard, was expected to attract 200,000 marchers.

Highland Woman Wants a Divorce

Sadie Tucker of Highland seeks a divorce from her husband, Clarence Tucker, alleging that he was observed last July parked on the Bailey's Gap-Milton highway in his car with a woman not his wife. Two witnesses testified to the facts.

Frank Powers and Llewellyn Delease testified that they were en route down the road last July with a load of fruit when they saw the Tucker car parked. Believing the owner was experiencing difficulty they stopped their truck and went over to the parked car. They produced a flashlight and observed a woman sitting on Tucker's lap and the decree is sought on the alleged acts which they said took place that night.

The Tuckers were married in 1922 at Danbury, Conn.

Michael Nardone appeared for plaintiff.

Kingston Home Bureau

The leaders of Better Grooming Classes of the Home Bureau of Ulster county attended the second lesson in their course at the Home Bureau room on Thursday, February 4. Mrs. Gladys Butts of Cornell University was the teacher. The care and arrangement of the hair was the topic. The next meeting of the Metal Craft Class will be held in the Home Bureau rooms on Wall street, Tuesday, February 9, at 1:30 p. m. All members of the class are urged to attend.

Universal Comment.

Berlin, Feb. 6 (AP).—President Roosevelt's move for United States judicial reform excited universal comment and banner lines in the German press today. The comment was generally favorable to the plan and the American President was pictured as a champion of vigorous leadership against "bourbon" methods of government.

Leak Checked.

New Madrid, Mo., Feb. 6 (AP).—A small leak in the levee protecting New Madrid from the Mississippi river flood was checked early today after 400 workers toiled through the night to keep the water out of the town. The body of the twenty-fourth victim of last Saturday's levee tragedy was identified as James F. Rubin, of Wardell, Mo., Coroner L. A. Richards announced last night.

K. of C. Ball Was Enjoyed Last Night By 1,200 Patrons

More than 1,200 enjoyed the 18th annual charity ball of Kingston Council, 275, Knights of Columbus, at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium, Friday night, contributing to the fund to be used by the Knights for non-sectarian charity.

From the time that Florian P. Wingert spoke a welcome to the vast audience, thanking them for their patronage, until the last strains of "Home, Sweet Home", those who attended the ball thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Knight Wingert introduced Arthur Boran, radio personality, who was master of ceremonies, and one of the chief performers on the bill of vaudeville, imitating President Roosevelt, Al Smith, Ben Bernie, Ed Wynne, Lionel Barrymore, Charles Laughton, Eddie Cantor, W. C. Fields and Walter Winchell. His impersonations were very pleasing as was the way he announced the other acts.

One of the stars was Alan Chester, Radio City's outstanding tenor, who favored the assemblage with several solos, old and new. Jones & Rooney furnished the comedy with their singing, dancing and "roughing it up" act.

Marve Jensen with his Steps and Smoke Rings combined a novel bit of magic with his dancing, picking lighted cigarettes and a pipe out of the air, much to the amazement of the audience. He sang several popular numbers, too.

Closing the program was Don Costello & Company, offering the latest in modern dance steps.

After the floor show, assembly dancing was enjoyed to the music furnished by Felix Ferdinando's radio band, and Roger Baer's Cubs of Kingston. Bill Raible and Helen Thorpe were the vocalists with the local ensemble, singing over a special amplifying system hooked up by the Bruck Radio Shop. Irene Janis of radio renown, sang with the rival band.

The various committees were on hand to see that no detail was left unattended to, and their efforts were highly appreciated by the patrons.

HULEN'S LOVE LEAVES NO ADDRESS BEHIND

Excelsior Springs, Mo., Feb. 6 (AP).—While Harold Hulen, the radiator Romeo dozed outside a closed bedroom door, his love flew out the window—and boarded an airliner for New York early today.

Miss Florence Hurlbut, 20, brunette, slipped out a bedroom window at the home of T. E. Crawford where she had taken temporary refuge, and fled without awakening her "sit-down" lover.

The sudden departure of the object of his affections, left Hulen in a predicament. He had started his strike chained to a radiator in Miss Hurlbut's apartment, announcing he would not move until she made up her mind about a marriage proposal. But when the girl moved to the home of Crawford, who is Hulen's uncle, the striker moved also, chaining himself to a radiator outside the guest bedroom.

To follow Miss Hurlbut's next move, won't be so easy. For one thing she didn't leave him any forwarding address.

"getting bigger everyday"

Yes, sir, every day The Freeman is getting bigger. More and more people in Kingston and vicinity are becoming regular subscribers to The Freeman. It is their newspaper, bringing them up to the minute news of friends, of home, and of National and International Affairs. Figuring four readers to the average family, every day 40,000 pairs of eyes read The Freeman.

And Mr. Business Man—What does this mean to you? It means that Your Advertising Message Placed in The Freeman will reach more readers than in any other medium in or near this shopping area.

Love is what makes a rumble seat comfortable.

Our favorite hunting guide has trouble with his reading, but he seems to be able to dope out figures --of course, he freely admits he never had time to go to school. Last week we were driving in his flivver and came to a road sign. "Gol ding it," he said, puzzling over the sign, "I kin always tell how far it says, but derned if I kin tell where to."

A man crossed a car filled street while looking up at an airplane overhead. Three buses shaved him so closely that his beard didn't appear again for a week, the wind from six passing cars raised the nap on his last year's suit, one five-passenger car removed the shine from the back of his left shoe, and the drivers of seven others of assorted makes stripped their gears in an effort to avoid him.

After stumbling over a curbstone on the other side of the street, the pedestrian was heard to murmur: "My gracious, those chaps do take risks."

One man lost his car license and a $50 fine for running over a dog. We should be careful to confine such activities to pedestrians.

Dealer in Second-Hand Cars—What's the matter with the car you bought last week?

Victim—Everything makes a noise but the horn.

First Mechanic—Which do you prefer, leather or fabric upholstery?

Second Mechanic—I like fabric; leather is too hard to wipe your hands on.

If everyone would just take a look at a car hit by a train, they would never fail to take a look when crossing railroad tracks.

The longer and louder we blow our individual horns, the fainter and feebler will grow the encores.

Blonde—If I kissed you now, you wouldn't recover from it for weeks.

Lover—Say! Who do you think you are?

Blonde—The wife of this big brute who is watching us.

Many a man starves today while feeding on tomorrow's hopes.

The following was gleaned from a Pennsylvania paper: "WANTED, temporarily, colored truck driver, experienced driving White truck. The White Company."

These Funny Women.

Yes, some women are funny creatures, fathom them if you can; summer is spent in tanning their hide, and winter in hiding their tan.

Judge (sternly, to Rastus charged with chicken stealing)—Guilty or not guilty?

Rastus—Not guilty, Jedge.

Judge—What is your alibi?

Rastus—Alley by which?

Judge—You heard me. Have you an alibi?

Rastus—You mean de alley by which Ah got away, Jedge?

It says in the Ten Commandments, "Thou shalt not kill," but a lot of folks who drive automobiles do not do much reading.

10 MILLION LETTERS FLOWN ACROSS ATLANTIC

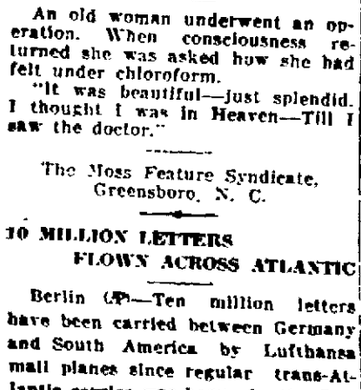
Berlin (AP)—Ten million letters have been carried between Germany and South America by Lufthansa mail planes since regular trans-Atlantic mail service was begun by the German air monopoly in February, 1934.

Regularity of the service has produced pilots who can nonchalantly say that they have flown the Atlantic 80 or more times.

In cooperation with the Condor Syndicate, of Brazil, the Lufthansa ships have made it possible to post a letter in Germany that will be delivered in Santiago, Chile, four and a half days later.

German business men have been quick to take advantage of this service which brings their South American markets closer.

Maine has a direct coastline of 250 miles that is so notched by bays and inlets that it has a tidal line of more than 2,400 miles, equal in length to one half of the entire Atlantic coast line in the United States.



Tom opens the door—the two playmates climb in—

Puff gives him the signal—and now they begin

To feel the ship move. Now they're over the sea

And off on a trip to the penguin country.

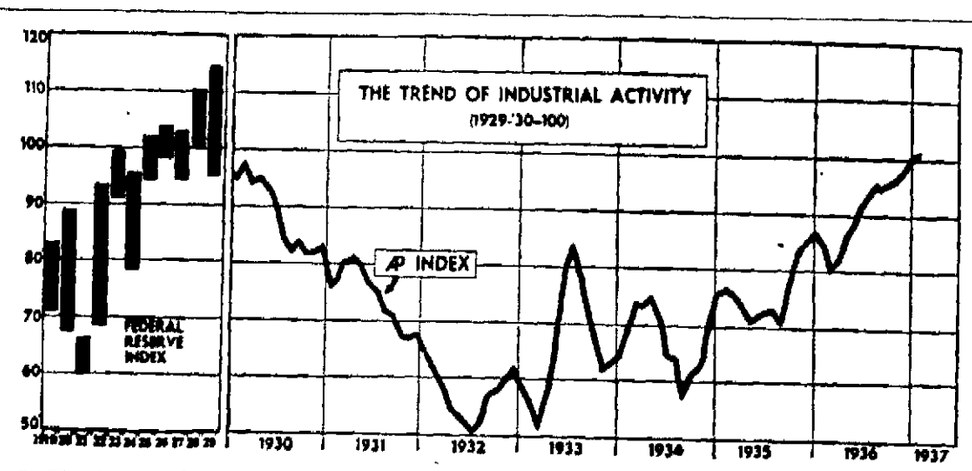
Business Activity Trend

January Sees Industry Hit 7-Year Peak, Then Fall Back Slightly



By The Associated Press

Seasonally adjusted, industrial activity during January averaged above the previous month, hitting a seven-year peak at the start and falling back slightly under the influence of floods and strikes.

Steel operations continued to push into new high ground despite curtailment in the output of their biggest customer, General Motors.

Cotton consumption, freight carloadings and automobile production were reduced by the month's twin difficulties. Electric power also moved somewhat lower.

"Poughkeepsie" to Ply Water of Sound

The Tietjen & Lang plant of the Todd Shipyards Corporation in Hoboken has received a contract for the rebuilding of the old Hudson River Night Line vessel Poughkeepsie into a harbor excursion vessel for the Meseck Steamboat Company, it was announced Thursday by Captain John A. Meseck, president of the firm. The Poughkeepsie was acquired from the Night Line last December and will enter service between the Battery and Rye Beach, N. Y., as the Westchester.

The Todd subsidiary, one of four yards competing for the work, submitted a bid of $169,789 to rebuild the vessel in 60 days. The United Shipyards bid 158,440 to complete the work in 90 days; the Robins plant of the Todd Corporation, $174,156 in 60 days, and the Brewer Drydock Company, $161,200 in 85 days. The Tietjen & Lang bid was accepted, Mr. Meseck explained, because of the time element.

The Poughkeepsie, according to plans drawn by the firm of J. W. Millard & Brother, will be entirely rebuilt from the deck up. The vessel's old superstructure will be ripped away and a new superstructure of three decks built on the hull. The vessel, which entered the Hoboken shipyard yesterday, will be able to carry 2,200 passengers in the excursion service.

GOOD NAZIS DEMAND WIVES HEIL HITLER

Berlin (AP)—A good nazi compels his wife to support the party, Reich Civil Service Leader Hermann Neef recently declared—in the course of a funeral oration curiously.

As an instance, Neef said: "When a national socialist's wife does not return the Hitler salute and replies with "guten morgen" instead, the husband cannot be much of a national socialist. Let no one tell me, 'I can't help what my wife or family thinks.' A man who says that, is no man."

Over a Thousand "Cottontails" to Be Released in County

From the plains of Missouri and the highlands of Maine, New York state plans to import 28,000 rabbits and varying hares this year as "seed" for its $50,000,000 game crop.

To provide Empire Staters with the making of potpie, hossenpfeffer and other dishes, the state will liberate 15,500 Missouri cottontails and 12,500 varying hares or "snowshoe rabbits" shipped here from Maine.

It is part of the State Conservation Department's restocking program to help nature compensate for the 1,500,000 rabbits taken by hunters during the last year.

Gardiner Bumb, superintendent of the state's bureau of game, regards the rabbit as a "crop of the land" and an important element in the state's $50,000,000 game crop. This estimate he figures, takes in money spent by hunters for guns, ammunition, gasoline and oil used in reaching hunting grounds, hotel bills in their sojourns and other items.

The imported animals will be supplied free to the state's 500 game clubs who in turn will release them. Including transportation, the state pays 75 cents each for the rabbits and $1.10 apiece for the hares. All are box-trapped in their native haunts. Superintendent Bump ventured no predictions as to how long the average of the 28,000 newcomers may live or how many will live long enough to reproduce. He did say, however, that "rabbits are more abundant in New York state today than they were on the arrival of the first white man."

"Neither the cottontail nor the varying hare should be confused with the jackrabbit," Bump pointed out. "The jackrabbit is a pest amounting to a scourge in some sections. We welcome none into New York state. The cottontail is a comparatively harmless fellow."

Over 1,000 "cottontails" will be received by the clubs in Ulster county this year. This unusually large quota, for this county, is due to the fact that upon the advice of the Bureau of Game, no cottontails were received or stocked during the downward cycle of game and the quota for the past three years have been compiled, so that this year we will receive three years quota instead of the usual yearly allotment.

These cottontails will be divided among the clubs comprising the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster county, which will assure the sportsmen of a county wide distribution of this much sought and hard hunted game animal.

In the "Pennsylvania Game News" official organ of the Pennsylvania State Board of Game Commissioners contains a number of items of general interest. First is the information that this state has turned a new point in its rabbit restocking program. Due to a notice from both the Mid-Western states of Missouri and Kansas that they intend to ban the further exportation of cottontails, the Pennsylvania commission has laid the ground work for a new system whereby it will attempt to produce its own supply of cottontails.

As the supply of cottontails which this state receives comes from this same source, it makes the members of the sportsmen's clubs and others interested in the supply of this game wonder where we are to receive our supply from in the future.

DR. BURNETT SPOKE AT POULTRY MEETING

Dr. E. L. Burnett of the New York State Veterinary College at Ithaca spoke at a meeting of about 60 Ulster county poultrymen on Thursday evening. He discussed the prevention and control of some of the more common poultry parasites and diseases. A very interesting discussion period followed the talk.

George Ham, chairman of the meeting, called on Albert Kurdt, chairman of the Flood Relief Committee to explain how individuals can contribute foodstuffs for needy flood victims. The names of local committeemen were announced. Mr. Kurdt stated it is planned to load a refrigerator car at the West Shore station on Tuesday, February 9. When loaded it will be turned over to the Red Cross.

John Miller, chairman of the county poultry committee, spoke briefly about the egg market situation. He pointed out that increased production has weakened the egg market and that the surplus commodity section of the Federal AAA is buying all the large eggs which do not sell for at least 26 cents on the New York market. This is below the cost of production but it has kept the market from going down further.

MT. MARION

Mt. Marion, Feb. 5.—Mr. and Mrs. George Sanford of New Paltz were Wednesday evening guests of the Mt. Marion dartball team when Mt. Marion played Katsbaan at Mt. Marion.

Kenneth Snyder of High Woods was a caller at the home of Harry Mack on Thursday evening.

Mt. Marion Home Bureau held its regular and business meetings jointly on Thursday, January 28, at the home of Mrs. Vernon Felton in Ruby. There were 12 members and two guests present. At a short business meeting Mrs. George Gillison was elected secretary to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Mrs. Frank Osterhoudt. The project which is being taken up at this time is Foods and Nutrition. The subject for Thursday was "Entertainment, Hospitality and Menu Planning" and the lesson was ably and clearly presented in a most interesting manner by Mrs. Fred Osterhoudt and Mrs. Joseph Young. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served and a social hour thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Richard Dietz celebrated his 11th birthday on January 26 with a birthday party in the evening. Games were played, ice cream and cake served and a general good time indulged in. Those attending were: Daniel and Samuel Branch, Robert, Raymond and Charles Lang, William Werner, Jr., and Richard Dietz.

Mt. Marion P.-T. A. will hold its February meeting on Tuesday, February 9, at the church hall. Dr. Elizabeth Parsons of Kingston, will speak on "Medicine as a Vocation," and a Founder's Day program will be presented. Lake Katrine has been invited to meet jointly with Mt. Marion on that night.

Mt. Marion P.-T. A. will hold a card party and dance on Friday, February 12. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

The 4-H meeting which was to be held at Mrs. George Gillison's on Saturday, January 30, has been postponed to Saturday, February 6. The work on the apron project will then be completed.

The Young People's Association held a meeting at the home of Isabel Young on Thursday, January 28. There was a full attendance and election of officers took place. Miss Eleanor Felton was elected president; Warren Myer, Jr., vice president; and Lester Felton, secretary-treasurer. It was decided at the meeting that the Young People's Association become a Christian Endeavor Society.

There will be a special collection taken up in the Plattekill Reformed Church on February 7 for the benefit of the Red Cross.

Elsie Werner's many friends will be glad to hear that she is once again able to be up and around and also that the same is true of Mrs. R. L. Courson, who has also had the flu.

Miss Dorothy Briggs entered the Kingston Hospital on Sunday and was operated on Monday morning by Drs. Jacobson and Sonking for appendicitis. The operation was successful and Miss Briggs is on her way to recovery.

On Monday evening the Young People's Association motored to the Spring Lake rink for a roller skating party.

Earl Johnson and sons, Teal and "Skippy," of Cooksburg, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Courson on Sunday.

Mrs. George Gillison spent Monday with her aunt, Mrs. Orlando Hunt, of Kingston.

Ilean Walsh has been home from school with grip, but is now able to be about again.

Mrs. Fred Osterhoudt entertained Tuesday evening in honor of her husband's birthday. Those invited to attend were the men of the consistory of the Plattekill Reformed Church and their wives.

Delightful Supper Dance

Once again a delightful supper-dance has been held under the auspices of the Student Council of the Moran School of Business, this time at the popular Clinton Ford Pavilion. It took place last Friday night, and the music for dancing was provided by Jack Linton and his excellent orchestra. The younger set of Kingston has come to look forward to the Moran dances with much pleasurable anticipation, and they are numbered among the most enjoyable and outstanding social events of the year.

To add to a very joyous evening, Harry Thorn, of the Thorn Dance Studios, presented The Oulton Kids, Eileen, Buddy, and Mary, his star pupils, whose stellar performances brought forth round after round of applause. The exceptionally fine dancing of little Mary Oulton, who was forced to take five bows on her Bill Robinson specialty, proves Mr. Thorn to be a teacher of outstanding ability.

Particularly commendable also was the versatile Jack Linton's rendition of a thrilling saxophone solo, "Butterfingers." The novelty song, "Shoe-Shine Boy," was sung by "Cappy" Capolona, a member of the orchestra, and a couple of other numbers were presented by Jack Linton, who, displaying his usual charm and personality, acted as master of ceremonies. The entire show, which met with the enthusiastic approval of all present, was accompanied by Jack Linton and his Clinton Ford orchestra.

Birthday Surprise

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Union Hose held a regular meeting on Monday evening, February 1, at their rooms on East Union street. Following the business meeting a big surprise awaited Mrs. Julia Kane, president of the Auxiliary, in honor of her birthday. An Evening of Fun

The Shriners are famous for the manner in which they seem to get the utmost enjoyment out of life, so much so that the Shrine has come to be known among Masons as the "playground of Masonry." However, the Shriners are not always seeking ways in which to make themselves happy as is evident by the number of hospitals for crippled children in which they have erected and support throughout the United States. Locally the Shriners are best remembered for promoting a charity ball each year entirely for the benefit of the children of the Industrial Home.

Monday evening at the Stuyvesant Hotel at 8 o'clock they will hold an affair strictly for Shriners and that it will be a night of fun is shown by the program they have arranged. This will be the annual meeting of the Kingston Shriners' Association but it is open to every Shriner of Kingston and vicinity whether a member of the association or not. They will have as their honored guests the Potentate of Cyprus Temple, Albany, and members of his staff who will help make the evening a memorable one by staging a "ceremonial" after which, through the courtesy of Cyprus Temple, an entertainment program will be staged. A buffet luncheon will be served and no pains will be spared to make the evening a most enjoyable one.

The ceremony was performed by Justice Philip Slutsky. Mr. and Mrs. Roy McDole attended the couple. A buffet supper was served following the ceremony. The guests included relatives and intimate friends of the couple. Mr. and Mrs. Lundquist are honeymooning at Catskill, N. Y., and upon their return will reside at the Napanoch Country Club where Mr. Lundquist is employed.

Casenza-Woerner

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Peter's Church on Sunday, January 31, at 3:45 p. m., when Miss Hilda Woerner of Kingston became the bride of Frank Casenza of Jersey City. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John P. Neumann. The bride was attired in a princess gown of white lace with a tulle veil and carried bridal roses. She was given in marriage by Christopher J. Woerner. Miss Madeline Woerner, sister of the bride, wearing an orange lace gown with matching slippers and a short tulle veil, was the maid of honor. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses. The groom was attended by his brother, Anthony. Miss Olive Laurence and Miss Melvine Colvin were the bridesmaids. They wore chiffon gowns of coral and green with matching slippers and carried bouquets of snapdragons. The wedding reception was held at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Maurere, a sister of the bride. Relatives and members of the bridal party were present. The bride is the proprietress of Hilda's Beauty Shoppe.

36th Anniversary of Saugerties D. A. R.

On Wednesday of this week, the Saugerties Chapter of the D. A. R. celebrated the 36th anniversary of its founding. Special tribute was paid to those members through whose efforts the Saugerties Chapter was organized, and corsages of talisman roses, tied with the national colors were presented to Mrs. Annie Smedberg, Mrs. Isabel F. Overbagh and Mrs. Frank Phelps, who responded to the roll call of charter members. Mrs. Marie K. W. James, Miss Ethel Gray, Mrs. Lydia C. French and Mrs. Taylor sent letters of greeting and regretted their inability to attend.

During the afternoon, the members listened with much interest to the reading of the minutes of the first meeting held in 1901 at the home of Mrs. Peter Cantine. Miss Mary Isabella Forsyth, regent of Wiltwyck Chapter at that time, was present and assisted in organization.

At the meeting on Wednesday, the regent, Mrs. Frederick E. W. Darrow, announced that the chapter was the recipient of a copy of "The Pearl," from Mrs. Lydia Cantine French, presented in memory of her mother, Mrs. Sarah Starin Cantine, while Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. W. Darrow also gave a copy of Schoonmaker's History of Kingston.

Mrs. William R. Anderson, regent of Wiltwyck Chapter, Kingston, was unable to be present, but sent a very cordial letter of greeting and best wishes from the mother chaper.

Word was received this morning that Mrs. E. A. Anderson, widow of the late Captain Anderson of the "Mary Powell," had fallen in her apartment in New York city and broken her wrist.

Mrs. Harry Smith returned to the Huntington today from Jackson Heights, Long Island, where she has been visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Olsen.

Mrs. Chase Honored at Tea.

Mrs. John McClure Chase, president of The New York Federation of Music Clubs, was honored Wednesday afternoon, February 3, at a tea at the studio of Miss Jennie Hildebrandt, 155 Clinton avenue. Mrs. Chase gave a very interesting account of music in the Orient where she has traveled extensively. The pupils of Miss Hildebrandt held a hymn contest and received valuable points in hymn playing from Mrs. Chase. This was so enjoyed that the pupils are eagerly looking forward to the New York State and National contests. The Rhythm Band rendered English, Scottish, Viennese, Hungarian, Bohemian and German folk tunes. A group of pupils, Maureen Troy, Florence Croswell, Jane Steward, Edith Ellison, and Dorothy Tancredi played piano solos by the composers Grant Shaffer, John M. Williams, Nash, Welles, Engelman, Hays, Duvernoy, Ford, Nevin and Chopin. Miss Hildebrandt and her pupils have been members of the N. Y. Federation of Music Clubs for eight years. Miss Hildebrandt is the founder and director of the Kingston Junior Music Club. Mrs. Arthur Ellison assisted the hostess.

Helps For Housewives

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE

By MRS ALEXANDER GEORGE

Balance your budget by planning one or more meatless days each week. Cheese, eggs and nuts may all be used in combinations which are just as nutritious as those in which meat is included.

Candied grapefruit and orange peels are always tasty additions to liquid sauces to be used over baked or steamed puddings

Rust stains may be removed from washable materials by: (1) rinsing the soiled garment in cold water; (2) sprinkling the stains with lemon juice; (3) then covering the stained area with a thin layer of salt, and (4) letting the garment or material lie out in the sun for two days before it is washed again. Grass stains may be removed with alcohol.

Never melt chocolate directly over a fire, since it is easily burned. Put it in the oven or melt it over a pan of hot water.

When you're frosting cakes be sure to have them free from any loose crumbs. In smoothing the icing use a spatula which is frequently dipped in warm water.

A tray of assorted pastries gives a festive touch to any party. Try varying the fillings in pastry cut into different shapes. Some may be filled with jelly, others with fresh or stewed fruits, and still others with flavored whipped cream. Chocolate, lemon and cocoanut in cream fillings are also very tasty. Each piece of pastry may be topped by a candied cherry, a nut or a date.

HAVE MORE FUN FOR YOUR MONEY WITH A WORKABLE BUDGET PLAN

First-of-the-month blues?

This is how the Deakers felt when the bills came in, before Lois started their budget plan.

Ken gives her full credit for stopping their aimless spending and making their money buy what they really want most.

She divided their income, allowing so much for shelter, food, operating expenses, clothing, advancement and savings. Now their spending is like a game—they're something to aim at.

Lois designed a budget to fit their pet economies and extravagances. Both like a really nice home. So they ran a bit over the usual 20 or 25 per cent allotment for shelter. To do this they pared their amusement allowance and made home their recreation center.

They don't miss rushing about, scattering their money away here and there, now that they've settled to their same room, bought deep, comfortable chairs, made the whole house cozy and attractive. Their friends love coming over for the evening.

Knowing exactly how much they can spend for clothing makes them consider every purchase carefully. Each sticks to a "key" color. Ken's is brown, Lois' navy. She lives her wardrobe occasionally with a red hat or a gay jacket or a white blouse. But no matter what combination of clothing and accessories she puts on she's sure to be harmoniously dressed.

You can work out a budget that fits your income and tastes with the help of our 10-page booklet, How to Budget Your Income. Sample budgets for different incomes. Ruled pages to enter your own budget figures.

Send 10c for our booklet, How to Budget Your Income, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 10 West 19th street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your Name, Address and the Name of Booklet.

Fashions and Household Hints for Women

Meatless Recipes Rouse Winter-Jaded Appetites

LENTEN DISHES.

By MRS ALEXANDER GEORGE.

Meatless recipes have a double value at this time of year. In the first place many family appetites are suffering from severe cases of winterjade which a change in menu will do much to remedy. And in the second place the Lenten season will begin February 10

Consequently egg, fish and cheese dishes and escalloped mixtures of various kinds will play major menu roles during the next few weeks

Camouflage Eggs.

Eggs, for instance, may be camouflaged in a number of different ways Combined with mushrooms, fish cheese or vegetables they supply most of the food values provided in meat Or frankly unmasked they may be poached, shirred or scrambled, made into omelets or served flanked with vegetables.

Many such dishes are good served with rice Rice may also be mixed with crab-meat (which lends a very distinctive flavor to many cooked foods), topped by a highly-seasoned white sauce and baked in a mold

Crab-Meat Croquettes.

Crab-meat and salmon make delicious croquettes. They may be served with such side dishes as creamed peas or beans, home-made noodles or marshmallow-topped sweet potato patties Mixed with egg yolks in a thick white sauce (with chopped pimientos, cooked green peppers and celery added to lend distinction to the flavor) they also make excellent a la king mixtures

Other meatless suggestions include macaroni, spaghetti or rice loaves (with creamed vegetable or mushroom sauces), codfish balls (served with cabbage salad), creamed mushrooms in patty shells, broiled and baked fish, macaroni and cheese and souffles or fondues of numerous varieties

Not only do such dishes revive appetites They also save time in preperation Consequently, many housewives will now have time to fulfill long over-due promises for pecan pies, cocoanut cream pudding, cinnamon buns and other family favorites —thanks to a meatless menu.

Use individual paper cups for holding mixtures to be frozen in a mechanical refrigerator They not only save time in freezing but they are eisier to serve and also save dishwashing.

To Keep Young And Beautiful, Learn How To Rest And Relax

BEAUTY IN REPOSE

Jane Pickens, stage and radio songbird who knows the beauty value of rest relaxes after a matinee and before an evening performance in a glamorous peignoir of deep blue velvet

By ADELAIDE KERR

New York, (AP)—Here is a beauty prescription which does not cost a cent.

It is a favorite of the most beautiful women on the continent and the most famous actresses in the world Unless it is included in the regime beauty cannot be retained Yet many American women ignore it so completely that they defeat the very ends which they spend hundreds of dollars trying to attain.

It is simply—relax and rest

During the years I spent in Europe as Feature Editor of The Associated Press Paris bureau I learned the beauty secrets of some of the loveliest women on the continent Virtually all of them know the value of repose Eight hours' sleep every night and a half an hours daily rest either after luncheon or before dinner is as much a part of their beauty regimes as cold cream

Beauty Ritual.

Here is the ritual one of them follows every day

Before she dresses for the evening, she removes all makeup, covers her face with nourishing cream, takes a relaxing warm bath and, after massaging the cream lightly into her face, lies down with pads of cotton saturated with ice-cold water over her eyes

Lying flat, she begins consciously to relax, first the toes then the foot, the ankle the knee joint and so on up to her head until she is so limp she seems to have sunk into the mattress She lies so until it is time for dressing which she begins by taking a cool shower and dashing cold water over her face She says it took her nearly six months to learn to relax completely in that fashion, but that she regards it as the most important beauty ritual in her entire regime, so refreshed is she afterward in body, face and mind

American women have a tendency to rush about much more than continental women whether their days revolve about a household a social program or a career The majority of them plan twice as many things as they can do—then try to wedge in a little shopping or beauty massage for good measure The result is a weary face frazzled nerves and a lick of poise—none of which make for beauty

Thing "Black."

Try budgeting your day for a while—scheduling just what you know you can accomplish, without racing to keep pace with appointments Three or four times a day relax completely in your chair for a few minutes close your eyes and think "black It will do much to banish fatigue from mind and body and keep both feeling fresh

When you go to bed, shut off your thoughts as you turn out the light (The day is ended and tomorrow will be another one) Open your window from the top, so that drafts will not strike you, make sure the sheets are smooth, and the bedding light and warm Relax and go to sleep

Spring Fabrics Picture World's News Events

CONSTITUTIONAL SCARFS

World events are leaving their stamp on new spring fabrics. Here is the latest thing in scarfs inspired by the 150th anniversary of the signing of the constitution of the United States, which will be celebrated this year. It is a square of navy blue silk printed in white with the preamble to the constitution, its articles and amendments. It is worn with a hat of navy blue and white silk taffeta.

By ADELAIDE KERR

New York, (AP)—World events are making headline news in spring fabrics

The materials which will appear in early Easter Parades from Fifth avenue to Market street have been influenced by virtually every event of major importance from the approaching coronation of King George VI to Princess Juliana's wedding

Prints which designers say are getting the biggest "play" they have had in years reflect the effect of world news more than any other fabrics The 150th anniversary of the signing of the United States Constitution which will be celebrated this year has inspired a new silk scarf printed with the preamble to the constitution, while the marriage of the Netherlands' princess stimulated the creation of prints splashed with gay Dutch figures

The coming coronation of King George VI of England is reflected in this dark silk print stamped with escutcheons in white.

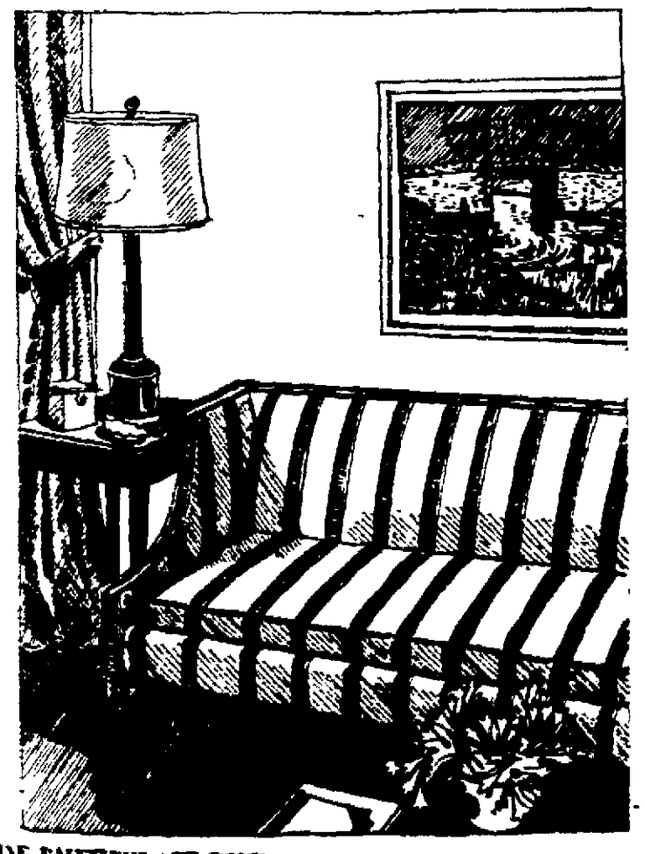
The influence of the coming coronation of King George VI is reflected in a host of new silk prints patterned with crowns escutcheons and York Roses There is even a what not print spattered with conch shells and other knick-knacks reminiscent of the Victorian epoch

Gay Dutch figures—red, blue, green and white—dancing over a black ground, reflect the influence of Princess Juliana's wedding.

Let Pictures Suggest Room Color Schemes



FINE PAINTINGS SET TONE

A reproduction of your favorite artist's work often will serve as a focus around which to build a room's color scheme.

By MARY DAVIS GILLIES

(Prepared By McCall's Magazine For The Freeman)

Why not have a great painter design your rooms?

It doesn't mean a hurry call to Paris or New York—unless you can afford it. But if the old color scheme bores you and your budget bores you even more, you can still have an exciting new room by investing in one of the excellent reproductions of your favorite painter's work and designing a color scheme around it

First choose your picture. Of course, you may start with a vague general idea of the colors you would like—and depend on the artist to make the right color harmonies come to life.

A good picture for decorative treatment must naturally be a faithful reproduction. It must be one which arouses interest and holds it. Perhaps it is wise to try to get the picture on approval—or, at least, go back to the shop several times to "make sure. If there isn't the right kind of print shop or store department in town, the picture publishers and museums will be glad to help if you write for advice.

Suppose the picture is Van Gogh's "Landscape with Bridge." The walls are painted from the pinkish tawny shade of the bridge; the soft green-blue carpet is the color of the water and sky, the draperies are straw-yellow from the distant field, one chair is in the brick-red of the boats and another is in the dark green of the grass; the sofa has stripes of red, straw color and dark green.

And over the fireplace or sofa, dominating the room and triumphantly setting the color theme, hangs the picture itself.

WOMEN In The News

ITALIAN BRIDE-TO-BE

In Milan, Italy, it was announced Signorina Orsolo Buzoli, 22-year-old daughter of a local business family, soon would be married to Vittorio Mussolini, 20-year-old Ethiopia war veteran, son of Il Duce.

MOUNTAIN BRIDE

Lugging a doll half as large as herself, 9-year-old Eunice Winstead turned up at her parents' cabin in the Tennessee mountains and announced she had married Charlie Jones, 22. The doll was a wedding present from her 4-foot husband.

BEST PROPOSER

Dorothy Aley, an Arnett, Okla., girl employed in the Washington office of young Senator Josh Lee from her home state, got a free trip to Hollywood by winning a movie-stunt Leap Year proposing contest.

Add half a cup of boiled rice to your regular waffle recipe if you want to serve waffles with creamed fish or chicken. Cooked corn may also be used in such a manner.

DO YOUR GARDEN SHOPPING EARLY FOR SEEDS AND BULBS

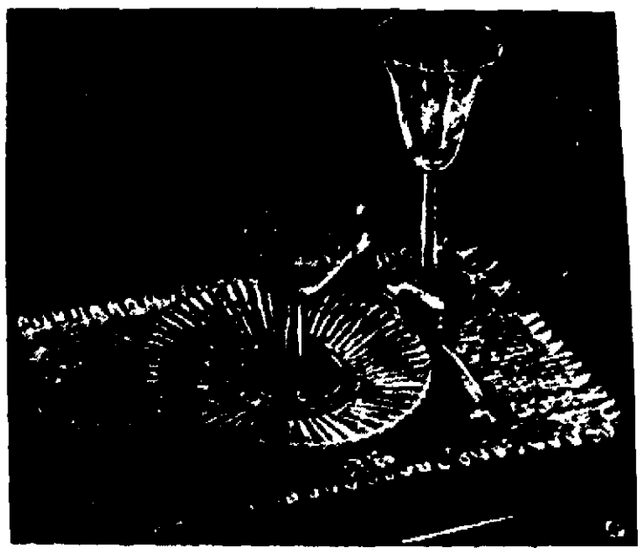
By The Master Gardener

The garden catalogs are coming in thick and fast this month and most welcome they are, too Browse through them to your heart's content, but while you're browsing, make out your spring order of seeds plants, nursery stock, grass seed plant food, and the many other garden sundries you will be needing

This promises to be a record year for gardening Many desirable items are going to be sold out if you delay your order too long, or at best you will not receive the choicest stock in the case of nursery items Then, too, early orders insure having your seed, plants, plant food and gardening sundries on hand at the desirable planting season Your order will be rushed to you just when you want it—no undesirable delays, with good planting weather finding you without planting material

Remember that delivery of plant food and grass seed for the lawn will probably have to be requested earlier than the balance of your order because if you want your lawn to stay ahead of the weeds, it is best to distribute plant food just as soon as the frost is out of the ground and you can safely tread on it without marring the surface Early sowing of grass seed is also advisable Grass makes its best growth in cool weather

Place Mats Brighten Tables; Here's How To Weave Them



HOMEMADE PLACE MATS

An amber place mat makes an attractive background for amber-ware. This one has a border of gray, white and black which runs across the top and the bottom of it.

Hand-woven place mats are especially practical and economical for the breakfast nook or for informal tables on the porch or lawn The one shown above is very easy to make

Materials needed for it include one fold of light amber crepe paper strips of black, white and gray crepe paper; one large blunt pointed needle with an exceptionally long eye; and one (homemade or bought) hand-loom which can be adjusted to a 16-by-11-inch size (the size of the mat)

Cut the light amber, gray and white paper in strips 1¾ inches wide across the grain. Cut the black paper ¾-inch wide. Twist and fasten each of the strips (Twisting makes the mat pliable.)

Begin winding the amber strips around every other tooth of the loom—the short way of the loom. If a strand breaks or you reach the end of a strand join the new one by opening the first strand and putting the end of the new one inside it, being careful to paste neatly

When you complete winding down the loom thread the needle with the paper (still using the amber) and weave it over and under each strand already on the loom, stroking the thread around every other tooth at either end In weaving push the strands close together as you work, to keep the texture constant Continue for five rows

The next weaving in the border design—which runs across the top and bottom of the mat. The design calls for 2 rows of black, then 1 row of white, 1 row of gray, 1 row of white and, finally, 2 more rows of black. When you finish the design begin weaving with the amber again—until you come within 12 rows of the other side of the mat. Then repeat the border, following it with the final five rows of amber weaving.

Remove the mat from the loom. Finish it by executing it all around—across the outside rows—with a sewing machine or a needle and thread

FAROFF TIBET SENDS US NEW RACE OF MARIGOLDS

Marigold Crown of Gold

A Tibetan missionary is credited with introducing to gardens of the civilized world a new race of marigolds, which differ from all others in having foliage completely free from the characteristic marigold odor, which many dislike.

Seed of the wild Tibetan forests supplied by the missionary were taken in hand by an American expert plant breeder, and a hybrid variety, much larger and more beautiful than the wild type, but with equally odorless foliage and a really fragrant flower, has been awarded the All America gold medal, as the best flower seed introduction for 1937.

Cellarette Marigold Crown of Gold is the official title of this new flower, which is not only lovely in itself, but holds forth bright promise for further advancement in marigolds, and a revived interest in fragrant flowers

One of the reasons marigolds should have a place in every garden, is their easy culture and continuous flowering. They want plenty of room to develop While they like fertile soil this should not be overfed as when given too rich a fare they make too heavy leaf growth and the bloom is [illegible] may be delayed Seedling marigolds sown out in a bed at once and then allowed to branch out and make good bushes

FLOWERS SPEAK WELL IN VARIETY OF CONTAINERS.

When a box of flowers is received from the florist and no vase of proper size or style is at hand the flowers may often be arranged effectively in a glass pitcher a pottery jar and many useful for other purposes

A happy choice for a gift is just such a container, one that can be used for flowers one time and some thing else at another. Such a container can well combine beauty with utility, and be an ornament in the decorative scheme of the home with or without the flowers.

There are many types of containers which can be used for this dual purpose. An ornamental water pitcher, or a plain glass one with pitcher, or a pair glass can will often do. Cocktail shakers with removable tops can be had in assorted glass chromium and a variety of materials and if they are not too expensive for [illegible]

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JAGGER

New York, Feb. 6 (AP)—The stock market had a quick change of heart today and prices rallied fractions to four points over a broad front.

Traders who unloaded yesterday, following the President's message to Congress advocating drastic reform in the federal judiciary, hurried to replace commitments and found offerings limited.

Many leaders took their cue from steels and rails which were in the forefront of the comeback. There was some late selling, but this was fairly well absorbed. Transfers were around 1,500,000 shares.

Most brokers were still of the opinion Friday's sharp reaction was partly in the nature of a technical correction due to the recent advance of the list into peak territory for the past five or six years.

No one was injured. Only a watchman was on duty in the building. The mill was closed down for the week-end.

Stocks Dropped After Message

A few minutes after President Roosevelt's message proposing a change in the judiciary was read to Congress yesterday the stock market headed downward. It closed with industrials several points lower and rails and utilities also off.

Yesterday's news included more reports of improved rail and industrial earnings in 1936, indications of record sales last year by leading mail order companies and a drop in freight loadings because of the flood.

VanRaalte voted a common dividend of 62½ cents. Kobacker Stores announced a 50-cent declaration. Newmont Mining voted 75 cents, Casco Products declared $2.75. Canfield Oil ordered $1.

Net income reports for 1936 yesterday included: Lorillard, $2,517,-513 vs. $3,053,709 in 1935; Household Finance, $5,268,285 vs. $4,-263,926, American Brake Shoe, $2,351,965 vs. $1,699,400; United Fruit, $11,176,995 vs. $10,359,222 (year ended January 2); Blaw-Knox, $1,548,175 vs. $565,230; Lehigh Valley R. R. $1,323,825 vs. $1,813,801 net loss; Erie, $2,195,014 vs $852,400 net loss.

Pennsylvania Railroads January gross is estimated at $38,000,000 vs. $32,521,236 in January 1936. Gross last month of Kansas City Southern is estimated at $1,118,000 vs. $960,-788 in previous year. Gulf Coast Lines reported December net operating income of $157,994 vs. $71,-457 in December 1935.

Additional January sales reports yesterday included; Sears-Roebuck $30,576,814 (four weeks to January 29), up 19.2 per cent over previous year; Kresge $9,348,850, up 8.7 per cent; Newberry, $2,750,328, up 12 per cent; Spiegel, $1,840,562, up 26.2 per cent; Peoples Drug $1,-798,040, up 11.4 per cent.

January domestic copper consumption is estimated at 85,000 tons, a new seven-year high, 20 points over domestic price. On the average commodities were lower.

Princess Mary On Secret Mission

London, Feb. 6 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor's sister, the Princess Royal Mary, received last minute advice before her departure today for Enzesfeld on a secret mission to help the abdicated monarch solve his financial problems.

Princess Mary, accompanied by her husband, the Earl of Harewood, also was believed to have been entrusted by the government with the delicate mission of putting the Duke's exile on a more stable and even quieter basis.

Edward was described in authoritative reports from Enzesfeld as anxious to complete the financial settlement—either from the national treasury on the royal income—as he plans to wed Mrs. Wallis Simpson April 27, the day it is now expected her divorce will become final.

Government officials, it was said, were anxious to wind up the final phases of the abdication so not even a hint of "the king across the waters" would be raised during the coronation celebration in May of his brother, George VI.

The Princess Royal dined at Marlborough House last night with her mother, Queen Mary, and received whatever last minute instructions the Queen Mother had for her son.

Queen Mary, aside from her genuine love for her son, was said to be perturbed, with others in court circles, lest former King Edward VIII appear either like a family offcast or a useless drain on the national or royal purse which he once administered.

One of the points the ex-king's sister was expected to discuss was the sale of Edward's private estate of Sandringham which Edward VII, his grandfather, built for $1,500,000.

In addition to bills and presidential debts, the Duke is keeping up the Rothschild Chateau near Vienna where he is living at a cost of more than $2,000 a year. Parliamentary opposition to granting him a $125,-000 annual allowance was reported considerable.

Belle Ostrander Seeks Separation

Belle Ostrander of Delaware county is seeking a separation from her husband, Walter Ostrander, of Andes, and the matter came up in special term here Friday before Justice Schirick when plaintiff moved to examine the defendant before trial of the separation action in order to determine his financial status. S. J. Mauks, attorney for plaintiff, asked the court to permit an examination of the plaintiff and his books before trial. The motion was opposed by Andrew F. Curtis, attorney for the defendant, on the grounds that the court had no jurisdiction to grant such an examination in a separation action.

Plaintiff alleges that they have been married for some 45 years and that the parties are about 65 years old and that on October 5, 1922, there was a disagreement and a separation agreement was entered into whereby the defendant turned over to his wife the sum of $10,000 and additional property amounting to $5,000 pursuant to that agreement. However, at the time they did not separate but continued to live together for eight years.

During the time they continued to cohabitate the plaintiff claims her husband caused her to spend the money which he had given her pursuant to the separation agreement and spend it for maintenance of the home and for his support. She alleges she is now destitute and has no means of support.

Plaintiff alleges her husband is worth $100,000 and has an annual income of $10,000. The action for separation is brought on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

It is also alleged that following the separation about 1930 that the defendant went to Pennsylvania to commence an action for divorce in that state. Counsel for the plaintiff said efforts had been made to ascertain where this action was commenced but had failed to do so but an injunction had been secured staying this foreign divorce action.

Papers were submitted.

Dictator, States Assemblyman Heck

Albany N. Y., Feb. 6 (AP).—A dictatorship trend was read by one New York Republican legislator today in President Roosevelt's proposal to increase the United States Supreme Court membership while another saw a possible link with the future of minimum wage legislation.

Republican Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck said the authorization to appoint six new justices, asked of congress by the president, would give him "power for must decisions by the judiciary in addition to must legislation in congress.

"I can't see the difference between government under that system and European governments under a dictator," he declared.

The proposal's bearing on minimum wage legislation was considered by Republican Senator Thomas C. Desmond of Newburgh, author of one of three bills designed to replace New York's invalidated Wald wage act of 1933. All three are now before the legislature.

"If President Roosevelt appoints judges with the same views of the four who voted to uphold the Wald act," he said, "there is no need to take involved procedure written into the Moffat bill by Henry Epstein, state solicitor general.

"We would do better to take the simpler provisions of the Fischel-Steingut bill, which is in reality the old Wald act, and add minimum wages as proposed in my bill. This would undoubtedly be upheld by the court."

The Walt Act, declared unconstitutional last June, provided minimum wages for women and minors. The Moffat bill (Republican) would protect men and women and be administered by a minimum wage board. The Desmond proposal provides for men as well as women and minors.

Two Freighters Crippled at Sea, One Crew Rescued

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 6 (AP)—The five-man crew o fa schooner, aflame off the South Carolina coast, was taken aboard a Honduran steamer early today as coast guardsmen pushed through heavy seas to the aid of two crippled freighters, one listing "dangerously."

Coast Guard Division Headquarters said the captain of the S. S. Tela, a steamer, reported at 6 a. m.:

"Took off entire crew of dismantled schooner William A. Morse of St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, proceeding to Philadelphia with crew, schooner still afloat and on fire."

The five rescued were named in another dispatch as Captain Fred Dunke, David Powers, John Rabitte, Hugo Neville, and August Milinaar.

The rescue off Charleston, S. C., was performed in raging northeaster-driven seas which smashed the rudders of two steam freighters the 6,000-ton El Occidente of the Morgan Line and the 3,828-ton Riegel out of Bergen, Norway.

Both boats drifted helplessly before the storm.

The coast guard cutter Modoc, proceeding at "full speed" to the assistance of the Riegel 300 miles east of Wilmington, N. C., messaged that she was listing "30 degrees to starboard" and that starboard lifeboats had been smashed by waves. She is bound from Rosario to New York with a general cargo.

The Riegel reported at 10 a. m. that no ships had appeared in answer to its general call for boats to stand by. The Modoc was expected to arrive alongside about 9 o'clock tonight.

The El Occidente, which normally carries a crew of 32 out of its home port of New York, was swinging helplessly southward, its rudder broken, 100 miles off the Virginia Capes. Another coast guard cutter, the Sebago, expected to arrive alongside near mid-day.

Shifting of the Riegel's cargo left it in "the most danger," said coast guard officers, who predicted that the El Occidente would successfully weather its trouble.

Seeks Settlement In Auto Strike

their billets except those patrolling an 80-acre area embracing the Fisher Body Plant No. 2—one of those occupied by the sit-down strikers named in the injunction—the Chevrolet Plant No. 4, where a new sit-down started after the injunction had been requested, and other General Motors buildings.

The court writ called for the arrest of Homer Martin, international president of the U. A. W. A., other high officers of the union and its leaders at Flint, and the sit-down strikers. Martin is one of the participants in the governor's conference.

The others representing the union are John L. Lewis, head of the committee for industrial organization and director-general of the strike, and Lee Pressman, C. I. O. counsel. The U. A. W. A. is a member of Lewis' C. I. O.

The General Motors delegation consists of William S. Knudsen, executive vice president; John Thomas Smith, general counsel, and Donaldson Brown, finance committee chairman.

Municipal officials at Flint said that 600 men have been sworn in as "police reserves" for any "emergency."

Resumption of operations by General Motors, nearly at a standstill as a result of U. A. W. A. strikes in almost a score of its plants, by the first of the week was forecast in some quarters should the strike be settled over the week-end.

Today was the 39th day since the strikers began their occupancy of the two Fisher plants at Flint.

School No. 2 held a banquet for the graduation class on January 22 at the Stuyvesant Hotel. The graduates were: Albert Salzman, John Rowland, Sheldon Sherry, Mark Silverman, James Hughes, Emanuel Kunst, Thomas Tomashaw, Marcella Corkery, Oralyn Heindl, Lillian Kunst, Margaret Lewis, Hilda Rice, Adele Schwartz, Shirley Sherry. Class speakers were Hilda Rice and John Rowland. Master of Ceremonies was Albert Salzman. Guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Van Ingen, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lewis, Miss Anna McCullough and Mrs. George W. Simpkins, Parents of the graduates also attended. After the banquet, the class attended the movies at the Kingston Theatre.

Depends On Taxpayers.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 6 (AP)—The protection afforded by the Old Age Security Act, in the opinion of Dr. William O. Hotchkiss, president of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, depends pretty much on what taxpayers 20 years hence think about it. He told the junior chamber of commerce here last night that the information that "the permanency of old age pension policies is established by law * * * does not satisfy me." Dr. Hotchkiss asserted that "if taxpayers are unwilling to pay the amounts required," they may elect legislatures and a congress "that will repeal the laws establishing the pension."

Net 12 Inn 18 Years

Watertown, N. Y., Feb. 6 (AP)—Testimony that Leona Rosbia Backus, youthful bride of a 19 year old factory worker, is not 12 but 18 years old, was given today by members of her family at a hearing into a charge of rape placed against her husband. Mrs. Mary Rosbia, mother of the girl, swore her daughter was born September 22, 1918, at Deferiville, Jefferson county rural settlement.

Asks Separation And Maintenance

Testimony was taken before Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick at special term Friday in an action for separation brought by Nabel Teator Scism of Tivoli against Parker A. Scism, an employee at the Columbia County Garage in Hudson. Mrs. Scism testified that the marriage took place July, 1913, and that there were two children, one grown and one 18 years of age.

In November, 1935, Mr. Scism left his home without reason she said and since then he has contributed but $37 toward the support of his family. She asks for maintenance for herself and her 18 year old daughter. Testimony was given to indicate that he was employed at a wage of 60 cents per hour and his checks from the county running from $20 to $30 per week were presented to show his earning capacity. Joseph O'Rourke appeared for plaintiff. There was no appearance by defendant.

New Road Plans Sent To Supervisors

This communication from Mr. Bixby which, is dated Friday, indicates that the state intends to build this first five mile section of Route 28 this year and that contracts will be sought as soon as the county has procured the rights of way or taken steps to acquire them by condemnation.

Four Lane Road.

Plans call for a four lane concrete highway which will be 40 feet wide with a three inch curb on either side. It will be of the Standard Parkway section type which is considered the best type of road for the location. While it is a four lane highway the lanes are not divided by the customary safety isle which is used in some locations.

The road will commence at the Higginsville bridge and run to west Hurley over a new alignment for a major portion of the way. It will rejoin the Ashokan boulevard at the Zena road intersection.

For many years after completion of the Ashokan reservoir the city of New York maintained the Ashokan boulevard but that road, long known to be a narrow, dangerous and crooked piece of highway was condemned by persons who had to use it. After negotiations covering a long period the State of New York finally took over the highway and now maintains it for its entire length from Stony Hollow to Boiceville. Much of the agitation for requesting the state to take it over from the city of New York was due to the fact that a new and modern route was required and there was no apparent chance of the city making any improvements to the route.

Senator Wicks and Assemblyman J. Edward Conway favored the turning of the road over to the state in order that the state might reconstruct it and give those who travel it a modern highway. The section from Kingston to West Hurley is the first section to be taken over for reconstruction but it is hoped that additional sections will be improved and rebuilt as funds become available since it is the main route to the Catskill mountains and Oneonta.

British Bishop Blames Pacifists

London, Feb. 6 (AP)—The Archbishop of York asserted "it can be a Christian duty to kill" in approving today the Church of England assembly decision that "Christian citizens may fight in the service of their country."

"I think it is true that Fascist agitation is increasing the danger of war," said the Archbishop, the Most Rev. William Temple.

After hearing an attack against all forms of pacifism in which the Right Rev. Arthur F. Winnington Ingram, Bishop of London, warned "the real dangers to the peace of the world today are pacifists," the assembly yesterday adopted a resolution supporting Great Britain's preparedness policy.

First Snow Train To Phoenicia Friday

The first snow train of the season to Phoenicia carried 88 winter sport enthusiasts last night and in addition to those who came by train there were several more parties arriving by car. Approximately 150 people had made reservations in the village for the week-end.

There is good skiing on the Simpson Memorial slope just above the village where about six inches of new fallen snow has placed the slope in fine condition. Lying on the northern side of the mountain the snow which has fallen does not melt during the day and local ski lovers will find the slope in good shape Sunday.

In addition to the ski slope which is at the point where the snow train siding is located and where most of the less experienced people do their skiing, there is also good skiing on several of the mountain trails in the vicinity. The Woodland Valley-Winnisook trail is good, also the Slide mountain trail and the Romer mountain run is in good condition.

The first snow train to Phoenicia last year brought a far smaller attendance than the train which came up last evening. The second snow train will arrive about 11 o'clock Sunday at Phoenicia and will de part from the slope at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The funeral of Mrs. Isabelle M. Thomas was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late home, 122 Chambers street, and was very largely attended by her many relatives and friends from all sections of the city. The services were conducted by the Rev. Russell S. Gaenzle, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, who paid a lovely tribute of respect to the exemplary Christian life of the deceased. Many beautiful floral pieces sent by loving relatives and devoted friends were banked about the casket in the home. On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock the Ladies' Auxiliary of Kingston Post No. 150, American Legion, together with a large group of Gold Star Mothers, met at the home and held their ritualistic services. The casket bearers were John Fleming, Edwin Bock, Albert Lahl, Emil Bock, Joseph Farrell and Edwin Bock, Jr. The interment was made in the family plot in Montrepose Cemetery where the Rev. Mr. Gaenzle held the services as the body was lowered to its final resting place.

William E. J. Keatinge of Pine Grove, a highly respected resident of the town of Saugerties, and a man much beloved by his friends, died very suddenly in the Odd Fellows Hall at West Saugerties on Thursday night, February 4, where he had come to attend a card party of the Queen of the Catskills Rebekah Lodge. Mr. Keatinge had just seated himself in the hall when the attack came. He asked for a glass of water and then expired suddenly. Dr. Lester A. Sonking was called but Mr. Keatinge was beyond help when the doctor arrived. He was in his 72nd year and had been a sufferer from heart trouble for some time. Deceased leaves a wife, two daughters, Mrs. Francis Corwin of The Bronx, New York, and Mrs. Henry Lopaus of Cranford, N. J., and two sons, Elmer Keatinge of New York city and Walter Keatinge of Saugerties, and nine grandchildren. The sympathy of a legion of friends will be extended to the sorrowing family. Mr. Keatinge was an excellent musician and had been leader of Keatinge's American Band in New York city for many years. He was also a well known trumpet soloist. Mr. Keatinge was also deeply interested in Masonry and Odd Fellowship. He was a member of Golden Rule Lodge, No. 770, F. & A. M., of New York city; Bronx Lodge, No. 875, I. O. O. F., of New York city; Tremont Chapter, No. 428, O. E. S., of New York city, (and the first patron of the chapter); and Queen of the Catskills Rebekah Lodge, No. 36, West Saugerties. He was always a welcome attendant at the lodge meetings and he will be greatly missed by the members. The funeral services under the auspices of Ulster Lodge, No. 193, F. & A. M., will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Blue Mountain Church, of which he was a member. Interment in Mountain View Cemetery, Saugerties.

Pilots' Errors Are Blamed for Four of Five Air Crashes

Washington, Feb. 6 (AP).—The air commerce bureau, in a tentative analysis of five recent air crashes which cost 26 lives, today blamed four on personal failures. It had no information on the other.

The bureau reported to an air safety conference that pilot errors were "primary causes" of the four accidents and in three cases supervisory ground personnel also was responsible.

Bad weather was given as a contributing cause of the crashes, with ice formation and poor radio range reception figuring in instances.

The bureau lacked data on which it could base conclusions regarding the Western Air Express transport crash near Salt Lake City December 15. It carried four passengers and a crew of three.

Besides a pilot error and bad weather, the bureau continued, radio range reception was a factor in the United Airlines crash near Newhall, Cal. December 27 which sent nine passengers and three crew members to death.

With pilot and supervisory personnel errors listed as primary causes, the bureau said ice formation was a contributing factor in the Western Air Express accident near Newhall January 12 in which four passengers and a co-pilot were killed.

Martin Johnson, noted explorer, was among those killed in the crash.

A Northwest Airlines plane which rammed into a mountain near Kellogg, Ida., December 18, killing two pilots, "continued flight after losing radio range signals due to static," the analysis said. Both the pilot and ground personnel made errors, ice formed on the ship and there was some question whether navigational instruments were functioning properly.

Dick Merrill, crack Eastern Airlines pilot and transatlantic flier, was among those listed with pilots' errors. The bureau said this, supervisory personnel errors, bad weather and poor radio range reception sent Merrill's big transport down near Milford, Pa., December 19. No one was killed.

The bureau's report came after airline spokesmen had demanded that it raise from $5,733,000 to $14,000,000 its request for an appropriation to increase safety facilities.

NO CHILD LABOR IN COUNTRY, SAYS BUTLER

New York, Feb. 6 (AP).—Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, told Governor Lehman in a letter today that "there is practically no child labor" in this country.

He coupled the statement with a declaration that the history of the 18th amendment proved regulations of the proposed child labor amendment to be impractical.

The belief, he said, that there can be "uniform and just control of matters that are purely domestic" in a Union of 48 states widely different in climate, industry and population character is "wholly impractical."

FIRST WEEK ENDS WITH ONLY ONE ARREST HERE.

The first week in February closed today with only one arrest made by the police department. That arrest was the first of the month when a negro was arrested for disorderly conduct and fined $3 in police court. Only routine matters have occupied the attention of the police department this week, with the night men busy tagging cars left parked on the streets all night.

Postal Gains

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 6 (AP).—Postmaster General James A. Farley, speaking at the dedication of a new federal building here today, said that total receipts in New York state for 1936, amounting to $116,000,000, increased more than ten per cent over those for 1935.

"Total receipts," he said, "reflect more accurately than any other barometer the current economic and business trend." Receipts throughout the nation, Farley said, showed an increase of $235,000,000 during the fiscal year over the preceding one.

Biggest Land Suit

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 6 (AP).—Government attorneys levied their charges today at the Northern Pacific Railway Company's claim to 2,800,000 acres of the western domain, which has completed testimony in what they said was the biggest land suit in the nation's history. The hearing involves claim of the railroad under the congressional act of 1864, to every alternate section of "unoccupied, unappropriated agricultural" land along the road's western rights-of-way in alternative claims under land grant amendatory acts.

Scouting Praised At Local Meeting

Port Ewen, Feb. 6.—A splendid pancake supper was served to 50 men of the the community by the Boy Scouts of Troop 26.

Edward Carpenter with the assistance of Mrs. Basil Potter, Mrs. F. J. DeWitt, Mrs. Lillian Clark, Mrs. Hugh Clark, Mrs. Leroy Sleight and Mrs. Clifford Davis, prepared the supper. The scouts of the troop gave a brief demonstration of signaling and first aid. William Wright, scout executive of Ulster and Greene counties, presented moving pictures of scouts in camp life.

A series of splendid messages by Scoutmaster Palen, Sidney Clapp, who holds the highest honors in Scouting, Judge Joseph M. Fowler and Executive William Wright followed. Mr. Palen described the activities of the boys. One of the good turns of last year that was mentioned was the opening of a pathway on the sidewalk of the 9-W at the time of the heavy snow so that the youngsters could safely walk to school.

Mr. Clapp stated that work among boys always has its priceless recompense. He had taken as his hobby the conservation of boyhood among the under privileged groups. Until Scouting arrived with its constructive program, the work was difficult and limited in its scope. Now under the scout program many more things can be done for character building. The presentation to himself by the National Scouting movement of the Silver Beaver was one of the many rewards he has received in boys' work.

Judge Fowler stated that the proper guidance of young men was a profitable business as well as a privilege. Seventy-five per cent of the criminals today are in their late teens and early twenties. In his 12 years as a judge of the boys brought into the juvenile court there have been only three Boy Scouts. Two of these were for minor offenses. Within the same time there have been only two boys over 16 years of age who had any Boy Scout experience. Scouting provides proper training, leadership and companionship. Thus we secure for ourselves reliable citizenship for the community.

Mr. Wright stated that "we are paying $1,000 a year per boy for the boys in the Reformatory Schools. Twelve dollars per year per boy are spent on boy scout activities. This disproportionate spending of money challenges our thought. Nine hundred boys in Ulster county alone are looking for leadership. They will follow our example. How they will follow depends upon our leadership and interest in them."

Major O. R. Hiltebrant presented to the men a program which would aid the boys of Troop 26 to become fully equipped and to be equally presentable to any other troop in the county. In order to carry out this program, the following are to be his assistants: Edward Doyle, Captain Charles N. Behrens, Fred Spinnenweber, Basil Potter, Wallace Mabie, Robert Clark, John Reynolds, Joseph Beichert, Scott Vining, Clifford Davis and Roscoe Elsworth.

The meeting was closed by singing America.

Roger Mabie, who has been spending a few days at his home on Green street, has returned to school at Syracuse University.

Mrs. A. H. Short is ill at her home on Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sleight are receiving congratulations over the birth of a son this week at the Kingston Hospital.

Mrs. Wallace Mabie will entertain the Ever Ready Club at her home on Green street Monday evening.

Port Ewen Methodist Episcopal Church, "The church of cordial welcome," the Rev. J. Thoburn Legg, pastor.—Sunday school at 10 a. m. At 11 o'clock, Union Brotherhood Day service in the Reformed Church. WOODSTOCK MAN FINED $5 FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

Harold E. Scism of Woodstock was brought to the sheriff's office Friday night by Deputy Sheriff Ray Winne, following an automobile accident near the Shultis place at Stony Hollow, when Scism's car, which was being driven toward Woodstock, struck the Plymouth coupe of Walter A. Cartwright of Onteora, en route to Kingston. The officer reported that Cartwright's car was demolished, the Scism car being damaged about the front end.

Trooper Dunn and Deputy Sheriff Brown also made an investigation of the accident and Scism was arraigned before Justice John Watzka of East Kingston on a charge of reckless driving. The Justice imposed a fine of $5, which was paid.

Parade a Panther Too.

Hollywood, Feb. 6 (AP).—Ben Bernie, the Old Maestro, joined the ranks of battling band leaders last night by knocking out an amused sawyer in the midst of a dance and radio program at the Cocoanut Grove. It was a one-punch bout, witnesses said, with the victim requiring 10 minutes to be revived. Bernie said he was leading his "Lads" in a musical number when a man in the throng of dancers neared the band stand and jibbed him about the cigar in his mouth.

To Confer With Farley.

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 6 (AP).—Conferences with Democratic leaders occupy first place on the program of Postmaster General James A. Farley when he arrives here this afternoon to speak at tonight's testimonial dinner to Judge Harlan Rippey. He will confer with Ronald A. Dailey, Judge Rippey and other party heads principally, it is expected, on the question of who is to succeed Judge Rippey as Judge of U. S. District Court. Harold P. Burke, corporation counsel, mentioned for the judgeship also will confer with Farley. Judge Bernard Ryan of Albion, a member of the State Court of Claims, is Burke's chief opponent.

Cairo In Singing Mood

Cairo, Ill., Feb. 6 (AP).—Cairo was in a singing mood today. The reason? The Ohio continued to fall, although slowly, from the highest stage ever reached here and the city of 13,000 no longer felt a fear of possible inundation. Women and children who were evacuated when it seemed possible the waters of the Ohio might enter the city despite a 60-foot seawall, wanted to return. But Dr. Van Andrews, a member of the flood committee, urged that they not return "until the river falls several additional feet."

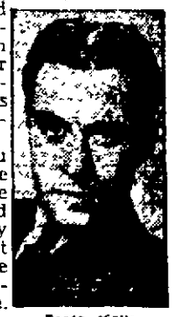
Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Personal (more or less) to Harold Bell Wright:

Some years ago, Sir, you wrote a volume called "The Re-Creation of Brian Kent." Your countless readers took it (as we say in Hollywood) big.



Scott Kolk

But you doubtless are aware that some people regard your literary output as just so much (as we say in Hollywood) hokum. They don't believe in heroes who find their souls' salvation in the rugged country, under the stars and the clean sky; who are lifted to new life through the ennobling influences of woman and nature, the latter in the raw.

Here, Sir, is an answer: here in this effete sector of your otherwise wild and man-testing west.

A Man's Man

His name is Scott Kolk. Handsome, a good physical specimen, a man's man. He is 31, good age for a hero. Ingratiating smile, firm handclasp, good clear eye—the sort of fellow a dog adores.

Please do not misunderstand. He is no prig, no goody-goody, no banner-carrier. He's quite "regular."

Scott Kolk from Baltimore, you may not know, was in films before, appearing gnotably in "All Quiet on the Western Front." He was 23 then. But he left, one day, with film work waiting.

He had become disgusted, he says, with himself and with the allegedly gay whirl of film society, with trying to be "clever" and so, so bright. "I got so I couldn't live with myself," he says.

Alone—Like Garbo

And he soaked what savings he had in a farm up in Maine, in wild isolated country. He worked it himself, ploughed, harvested, hunted, lived on the land. All alone, except for occasional visits with simple, honest neighbors, he got acquainted again with deer, with fish in streams, sunshine and snow and rain and—solitude.

After a year and a half he thought he was tolerably "livable" again. He sold his hay crop, bought a ticket for New York, and there a talent scout returned him to Hollywood—to "Secret Agent X-9," a clean, virile serial film.

But, you may ask, the girl—where is the girl? Ah, Sir, there is a girl. Use all your superlatives and you will not equal us in describing here. She is an artist. It was she who sent him out to "find himself." I gather there will be a marriage.

And I thought, Sir, you would like to know.

Farm Bureau Roll Shows Increase

According to C. C. DuMond, president of the Ulster County Farm Bureau, memberships are coming in daily and the 1937 paid membership already exceeds the 1936 total. The membership to date is 649 and all indications are that it will reach 750 by the end of the year. Last year the final number was 646. All old members who have not yet renewed their membership are asked to do so as soon as possible, so that all available time can be devoted to the Farm Bureau program.

Hudson Valley Fruit Exchange

Members of the Hudson River Fruit Exchange will celebrate the 25th anniversary of the organization with a dinner to be held at the Fabiola Hotel, Newburgh, this Saturday night. Dinner will be at 6:30.

Opera Camera

Conductor's Wife Snaps It At Rehearsals

FRITZ REINER, who has been chosen to conduct German opera in London's Convent Garden during the coronation this spring, keeps a candid-camera record of rehearsals. These parts of the record were made in America. When Reiner's hands are beating Wagnerian time, his wife times photographic shots for him with results like this.

LOTTE LEHMANN and LAURITZ MELCHIOR (in center) are "truly god-like" in Wagnerian performances but "very human" at rehearsals, Mrs. Reiner finds. She photographed them with Marvin Davenport (left), who was on hand to arrange a broadcast, as they examined Conductor Reiner's photographic light-meter.

KIRSTEN FLAGSTAD, while rehearsing "Tristan and Isolde" at San Francisco, poured a cup of coffee for Lauritz Melchior to atone for the bitter love potion he had just finished. Mrs. Reiner promptly put the scene on photographic paper.

ATTRACTIONS

At The Theatres

REVIEWED

Today

Broadway: "Beloved Enemy." Merle Oberon, rising young star of the Samuel Goldwyn organization, achieves another triumph in this violent story of the Irish rebellion as she plays the role of an English girl who falls in love with one of the youthful Irish leaders. A story of contrasts, of idealism and sacrifice, it is screen drama of unusual scope and entertainment and it has been staged and directed with care and ability. Those who saw "The Informer" will find this play less bitter but more romantic with Miss Oberon and Brian Aherne an ideal starring combination. Jerome Cowan, Henry Stephenson, David Niven and Karen Morley are featured. One of the best of the current cinema efforts.

Kingston: "Sing Me a Love Song". James Melton of stage fame, whose motion picture debut some time back was none too auspicious, returns in a more carefully planned opus by First National and the show is good entertainment for those who enjoy screen musical comedy endeavors. Mr. Melton, thankfully, is bolstered by a fine cast of comedy performers including Hugh Herbert, Walter Catlett, Allen Jenkins, Zazu Pitts and Nat Pendleton. Others in the cast are Patricia Ellis, Ann Sheridan and Hobart Cavanaugh. Most of the action centers around a big department store but the plot is unimportant and Songs were created by Warren and Dubin and Raymond Enright directed.

Orpheum: "Earthworm Tractors" and "Bengal Tiger." A feature on salesmanship is being offered in the first double feature at the Orpheum with Joe E. Brown playing the role of a dumb yet connected young man who believes he is the world's super salesman. He decides to do something big in salesmanship so turns to earthworm tractors and manages to put through a big order despite himself. Good comedy with Guy Kibbee featured. "Bengal Tiger" offers "Satan," a Mike Mallard action-thriller, in a series of unusual vulture man situations that are both interesting and exciting.

Tomorrow:

Broadway: "One in a Million." The talented Sonja Henie, long recognized as the premier skater of the amateur world, cashes in on her ability in the glittering show at the Broadway, a singing, ice skating, rollicking tale that is built on the life of the star and tells of her rise to success and her eventual debut in Madison Square Garden. Here is grand entertainment with a star studded cast of accessory players, beautiful sets, and careful direction. The skating sequences are the best part of the film with Miss Henie proving her grace and her world reputation before the camera. The cast includes Adolphe Menjou, Jean Hersholt, Dixie Dunbar, Leah Ray, Borrah Minevitch, Ned Sparks, Don Ameche and the Ritz Brothers. A 20th-Century Fox presentation under the direction of Sidney Lanfield.

Kingston: Same.

Orpheum: "Come Closer Folks" and "Hopalong Cassidy Returns." The Sunday bill at the Orpheum offers a modern comedy tale of a young man trying to make his way in the world and the cast includes James Dunn, Marian Marsh and Wynne Gibson. "Hopalong Cassidy Returns" is a thrill packed western drama wherein Bill Boyd plays the role of the famous Hopalong Cassidy, a cowboy without fear and a heart of gold. Mr. Boyd is assisted by Jimmie Lillion and a capable cast. "Custer's Last Stand" is also another feature on the program.

PAUL SIPLE TO SPEAK IN NEWBURGH FEBRUARY 9

Frequent inquiries have been made of the Boy Scout office regarding Paul Siple and when he would speak in this locality again. For the benefit of those interested Scout Executive Wright announces that Paul Siple will be the speaker at the court of honor of the Newburgh district, Orange-Sullivan Council. The meeting will be held in the school building on Broadway, Newburgh, Tuesday night, February 9, at 7:30. There will be no admission charge and those interested will be welcomed.

Five thousand messages of felicitation were received by the Nanking telegraph office on Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's 50th birthday.

Heiselman Issues Scout Proclamation

Mayor C. J. Heiselman today issued the following proclamation:

THE BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA, incorporated February 8, 1910, and chartered by Congress June 15, 1916, have during the past 27 years rendered notable service to the nation. They have done effective work in this community and throughout the country. During the World War their efforts on behalf of Liberty Loan and War Savings campaigns and other measures were outstanding. In time of distress from flood, hurricane, tornado and other disasters they have demonstrated the effectiveness of organized boy service. During the period of economic stress through which the country has just passed, they contributed in many ways to the relief of suffering, and they have rendered noteworthy service in the flood areas this year.

The Boy Scouts have not only demonstrated their worth to the nation, but have also contributed to a deeper appreciation by the American people of the higher conception of good citizenship.

The objective of the present Ten Year Program of the Boy Scouts of America is to provide for the nation a citizenry in which one of every four of the new male citizens each year will have had at least four years of Scout training.

During the past 21 years 7,377,008 persons, through the various programs of scouting, have enjoyed adventure, hiking, camping, swimming, woodcraft, handicraft, fellowship, health and safety, and have learned how to be helpful to others and have been trained to be participating citizens.

During the week from February 7 to 13 the Boy Scouts of America will celebrate their 27th anniversary. President Roosevelt, who is their honorary president, will address by radio, a message to all the Boy Scouts on February 8 and I trust citizens of this city will attend this message.

Boy Scouts of this city will represent us at the National Scout Jamboree to be held in Washington, D. C., next June 30 to July 9 and I shall strive, with the cooperation of my fellow citizens, to arrange suitable ceremonies at their departure and return.

THEREFORE, I, CONRAD J. HEISELMAN, MAYOR OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON, do hereby recommend that the citizens of this city observe this Boy Scout Week for the purpose of strengthening the work of the Boy Scouts of America.

I earnestly recommend that our civic organizations, our churches and our schools cooperate in carrying out a program for a definite recognition of the effective service rendered by the Boy Scouts of America, in order that the work of the Boy Scout Program may be extended to a larger proportion of the boyhood of this city.

The Boy Scout movement offers unusual opportunity for volunteer service. It needs men to serve in various capacities as leaders of boys. I hope that all who can, will, through the organizations with which they are connected, enlist for such personal service. Anything that is done to increase the effectiveness of the Boy Scouts of America will be a genuine contribution to the welfare of this city, the state, and the nation.

CONRAD J. HEISELMAN,
Mayor.

RAYMOND DUBOIS RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF HOLSTEIN CLUB

At a recent meeting of the Ulster County Holstein Club, Raymond DuBois of Gardiner was re-elected president. Harry J. Beatty of Kingston and John L. Schoonmaker of Accord were elected vice-presidents. Fred DuBois, Jr., of New Paltz was re-elected secretary and Albert Kurdt of Ulster Park, treasurer. The directors now are Jesse Deyo, New Paltz; B. H. Decker, Wallkill, and C. L. Schoonmaker of Gardiner.

It was reported that the club won third place, among 21 counties, in the state in the state extension contest. Plans were also made for the 1937 membership drive and future meetings.

Smallest Dwarfs

In the dense forests of Santo, largest island of the New Hebrides, dwells a tribe of dwarfs said to be the smallest in the world. The pygmies of the Congo forest are around 4 feet, but those of Santo, only 3 feet 6 inches, judging by those seen and measured by the white explorers. They fight with tiny arrows, tipped with poison and blown through blow-pipes. They shoot strangers on sight.

'The Show Off' Was Great Success

Friday evening the Senior Class again surpassed itself with the admirable presentation of George Kelly's comedy, "The Show Off." The play is based on the adventures of one, Aubrey Piper, a ridiculous show off. The events center around the Fisher family, plain, hard working people; Piper marries the youngest daughter, Amy, and thus involves them in his hectic escapades. Clara, the eldest daughter, is married to a successful business man, Frank Hyland. She attempts to aid the family in the many disputes that necessarily arise. From the time Amy and Piper are married there is no peace in the Fisher family. The play moves quickly through it all to the surprise ending when Joe Fisher receives $100,000 for a chemical invention, and all ends happily. The entire action of the play takes place in the living room of the Fisher home.

Miss Jean Elwyn, in the role of Mrs. Fisher, gave a splendid characterization of the sharp-tongued but common sense mother of the family. Her experienced production was noticeable in her voice qualities which, though soft, had good carrying power. Her expressions were achieved through facial expressions and gestures as well as body movement and carriage. Her makeup added the finishing touch to the characterization.

William Stall as Mr. Fisher was also well made-up for the part of the father. He, too, used his voice well in portraying an old man. This was his first experience on the high school stage and he should be highly commended for his work of last evening.

Amy, the wife of Aubrey, was enacted by Miss Ethel Moncure. The difficult task of assuming quick changes in temper was well done.

Miss Marjorie Whitely ably enacted the role of Clara.

Another difficult characterization was that of Aubrey Piper, the show off, in forcing the continual raucous laughter. Robert Van Kleeck rises to heights in carrying this part.

Louis Staley was Joe, the only son. This was a pleasant part of a sincere, happy youth. This was also his first appearance on the stage. Carl Studder does an equally excellent job as Frank Hyland, Clara's husband. Edward Safford and Norman Shapiro rounded out the cast by appearing as Mr. Gill and Mr. Rogers, respectively.

Robert Van Kleeck was one of the most experienced members of the cast. He has appeared in "The Late Christopher Bean," "Hyacinths for Christmas," "The Competent Staff," as well as various other plays presented by the Dramatic Club.

Marjorie Whitely is a member of the Woodstock Players. Her experience in High School is limited to a Christmas play, "The Reverie," in which she appeared in her freshman year.

Jean Elwyn is extremely interested in dramatics. Her outstanding ability as an actress gained her leading roles in "The Teeth of the Gift Horse," and "The Competent Staff."

Ethel Moncure, before coming to Kingston High, played leading parts in numerous plays at Highland Hall, Pennsylvania. Since coming to Kingston she has assumed an active part in the field of dramatics.

Carl Studer played the lead in "The Competent Staff" and Norman Shapiro has appeared in a French play, "Au Marche."

Miss Madeleine Tarrant directed this splendid presentation and to her, along with the cast, goes much praise in making another Senior Play a credit to Kingston High School. Frank O'Hara, president of the Senior Class, presented Miss Tarrant with a sheaf of red roses.

Music between the acts was furnished by a trumpet quartet from the High School Orchestra and consisted of John DeVine, Richard McConnell, Max Toffel and James Millard. Donald Hicks was the accompanist.

Renewed Attack on Malaga.

Lisbon, Portugal, Feb. 5 (AP)—General Gonzalo Queipo de Llano, commander of the Spanish insurgent army in the south, announced today he had launched a renewed violent attack on the Malaga front. In a broadcast over the Fascist controlled radio station at Seville, Spain, he said four motorized columns had captured three villages to the north and northeast of the strongly held Socialist shipping center. The advance, the general said, had been hampered by government demolition squadrons which blew up bridges and dikes and flooded the surrounding territory, drenched for more than a week previously by heavy rains.

Petersen Stars But Tianos Lose Match at Hudson

Despite a 245 single and 659 series by Larry Peterson, Tiano's All Stars lost to the Hudson Alleys Five by 45 pins Friday night in a close match at Jacob's alleys in Hudson. The winners pounded out a total pinnage of 2783 to 2738 for Kingston.

The locals won the first game and had a lead of 18 pins going into the third game, but flopped in the closing frames. Peterson put together a string of 209, 205 and 245 for his high series. His 245 game was marred by a split.

George Clowe, Hudson's ace pinman, anchored the winners with a 617 series with a high of 227. Bryant led off with 569 for the winners.

A return match will be rolled at Emerick's within two weeks.

Colonial Ladies Lose to Hudson

Making their debut as a team, the Colonial City Ladies lost to the Hudson Women by 178 pins Friday night at Jacob's Alleys in Hudson. After giving the Hudson team a stiff battle for two games, the local women keglers wilted in the third game. Hudson had a total of 2173 to 1893 for Kingston.

Mrs. Chick Miller of the local club was star of the match with a 483 triple. She started with counts of 175 and 183. Sally Gage had a 178 single and Ruth Creagh a 163.

Mrs. Decker anchored the Hudson club with a 193 single, high for the match, and a 466 series. Mrs. McKenna shot 172 and 461 for the winners.

Following the match the local bowlers were guests at a reception sponsored by George Clowe, proprietor of the Hudson alleys, and the upriver team. A return match is scheduled at Emericks in two weeks.

Gould Won't Sign Till He Knows Site

Chicago, Feb. 6 (AP)—The Chicago camp on the heavyweight battle front had a bad case of the jitters today.

Everything was set for Champion James J. Braddock and Challenger Joe Louis to sign articles Monday for a 15-round title match here next June when the champ's manager, Joe Gould, dropped a bombshell into the proceedings.

Gould said he wouldn't come here Monday or any other day until the promoters decide on a site for the bout. He kicked over the traces when the Illinois Sporting Club and Mike Jacobs, co-promoters, let it be known they were considering staging the battle at Comiskey Park, home of the Chicago White Sox, rather than at Soldier Field.

American Cage League Schedule

The week-end schedule of the American Basketball League calls for the Kingston Colonials to play two games Sunday, one in the afternoon against the Jersey Reds and the other in the evening against the New York Jewels, the team which they defeated last Wednesday in the auditorium.

The schedule:

Saturday, February 6—Original Celtics at Philadelphia.

Sunday afternoon, February 7—Kingston at Jersey Reds.

Sunday evening, February 7—Kingston at New York Jewels.

Sunday, February 7—Philadelphia Hebrews at Brooklyn Visitation.

Sunday, February 7—Jersey Reds at Original Celtics.

Winter Track Show At Garden Tonight

New York, Feb. 6 (AP)—Featuring an all-star cast from the sprints to the two-mile and a smashing climax in the Wanamaker mile, the winter's big-time track show makes its New York debut in the Millrose A. A. games tonight.

If the entry list is any indication, old pop time is in for a beating of no small proportions at Madison Square Garden. Three Olympic champions and 14 world record holders will compete, with the possibility of new marks in almost every event.

Five top-flight performers, each of whom have bettered 4:11 on the boards will meet in the mile. Glenn Cunningham, as usual, tops the list, largely because of his 4:11.9 victory in the prout mile at Boston last week. However, in addition to Pennsylvania's Gene Venzke, the Kansan faces more than just another race against the three other rivals in the five-man field.

Don Lash, Indiana's enduring Hoosier, will try the "Iron Man" stunt again in both the mile and his two-mile specialty, at which he holds the world record.

Suggestions at Football Meeting

Detroit, Feb. 6 (AP).—The door was open to a grammar class for some of the nation's leading football coaches today.

Meeting in annual session, the rules committee of the American Football Coaches Association, had before it suggestions—heard before—to make the gridiron game's rule book more readable.

In a secret huddle, the coaches sought clarification of the rules as well as considering some suggested major changes, in which football would adopt tactics of the professionals.

Return of the goal posts to the goal line and legalization of forward passes from any point behind the line of scrimmage were among chief suggestions, and Gil Dobie, Boston College coach, meanwhile crusaded in behalf of improved English in the code.

"The football rules book," said Dobie, former Cornell tutor, "is shot through with ambiguities, grammatical redundance and poor choice of words, making clean-cut and consistent interpretation difficult for coach, player and official."

NEWBURGH ACADEMY DEFEATS MIDDIES, 26-18

Newburgh Free Academy's flashy basketeers trimmed Middletown High's quintet Tuesday by a 26-18 margin to remain in the running for DUSO championship honors. The defeat dropped the Middies a notch lower in the league standings and shoved the hilltop hoopsters into a second place tie with the Ellenville Liberty five. Middletown's scrappy cagers furnished stiff opposition to the Greenmen most of the way but faded in the final frame.

ELLENVILLE LOSES OVERTIME CONTEST

The Ellenville High School Basketball team lost to Monticello last night on their home court by a score of 24-22 in a game that went to three overtime periods before a foul shot decided the game in favor of the mountaineers.

COTTEKILL

Cottekill, Feb. 6—The Ladies Aid Society held its meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur Depew. There were 17 members and two guests present. Plans were made for making articles for the fair to be held some time in the summer. At the close of the meeting Mr. Depew served delicious refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wells and some friends of Binghamton spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Grant Addi.

Mrs. Ro. Winchell of Poughkeepsie spent last Saturday with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Snyder.

Mr. and Mr. Oscar Beach and family and nephew Carl Meyerhuber spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Conner in Smallwille.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Depew accompanied by their friend Mrs. Chris Snyder, spent Sunday in Kingston with Mrs. Mary Athens.

Carl Meyerhuber, who has been visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Beach, returned home to Brooklyn Wednesday afternoon.

On Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cauley gave a dinner party for their son, Martin, it being his seventh birthday. The guests were Edna Hardtmeyer, Catherine Short, Loren Snyder and Oscar Beach, Jr. A very pleasant evening was spent in playing games.

Port Ewen Meets Clinton Avenue in Church League Tilt

Two crucial Church League contests are scheduled at the Y. M. C. A. Monday night. On the opening fray the Clinton Ave. and Port Ewen clubs meet. Both teams are undefeated and a victory for either club will strengthen their chances of capping second half honors.

In the second game the First Dutch and Mission Fives are scheduled. Neither team has scored a victory during the second half. The winner of this battle will leave the cellar post in the finale the undefeated Redeemers, holders of a 12-game winning streak, meet the St. Mary's quintet. Defeated by the Port Ewen and Clinton Ave. fives the Saints are hopeful of putting an end to the long winning streak of the Redeemers.

Games Tonight At Epworth Hall

The weekly basketball program at Epworth Hall tonight features the Clinton Avenue Wings against a strong West Hurley Five. In a previous encounter the West Hurley team overpowered the Wings in the closing minutes by 43-39. The West Hurley lineup includes the Nussbaum Brothers, Berry, Saxe, Hames and Sawyer.

The Wings will choose from "Dub" Schreiber, Don Britt, Ed Snyder, Bill Stoll, "Bub" Ferguson, Art Crist, Jack Struble and Ray Myers. There will be a preliminary game between the Eagles and the Rollers at 7 o'clock. The main contest is slated to begin at 8.

Battery A Defeats Palenville, 51-29

Battery A walloped the Palenville five last night at the New Armory to the tune of 51-29 with the local soldiers putting on their best show of the season so far.

In the first quarter the guardsmen led the mountaineers by a 6-4 margin and at half-time was far out in the lead with the score at 22-9. Naudain, former Saugerties player and new addition to the Palenville lineup, caged seven of his team's nine points in the opening half.

In the last half the mountaineers opened up with a scoring spurt but never came close to the local soldiers and the final tally by Swarthout closed the game with the local boys winning 51-29.

Carpino led the scoring with 17 points closely followed by Barth and Swarthout with 12 markers. Naudain made 13 and Rolland Craft made 9 for Palenville.

The Ladies' Auxiliary will be on hand to explain the different ways in which patients are helped by the Auxiliary during convalescence.

The library contains books on many subjects, and donations from old libraries as well as new books are always acceptable. Magazines and papers are much enjoyed also.

Many ladies will be interested in the handicraft department, which is officially called "Occupational Therapy," and comprises all sorts of artistic work with needles, paints, light tools, etc., that will keep the "almost well" patients interested and while away the weary hours during recuperation. None of this work must overtax and all is of the variety that can be dropped for rest periods. There is a never ending demand for embroidery threads, wools, art colors, metal, leather, light wood, metal for ornaments, to say nothing of glue, paste, scissors and other supplies. This department is under the capable direction of Miss Margaret O'Sullivan, a trained teacher.

Ladies who enjoy reading aloud are always in demand, as some patients are not allowed to hold a book or take part in handicraft classes.

The visiting committee provides good cheer by calling on patients whose relatives are unable to see them often. A cheerful smile that can be expected at regular intervals is much looked forward to and helps mark the weeks of improvement.

The birthdays are remembered by another group, and this is such a popular and simple pleasure that many unable to visit due to long distance from the hospital might feel they were having a hand in good cheer by sending cards to the patients.

Mrs. Frederic W. Holcomb, president of the Auxiliary, will be glad to send names to anyone desiring to write to the patients. Also, new ideas for helping in this work will be gratefully accepted.

"There are many more interesting things being done and all are invited to the hospital on the 15th to observe them. Please feel that this institution is yours in furthering a great cause," the committee heads say.

DANCE MONDAY NIGHT AT THE CENTRAL FIRE HOUSE
